FLYNN PAVING ALIBI BRANDED FALSE AT QUIZ

Knew City Did Job, Senate Told.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—A veteran prosecuting attorney, who investigated the now famous paving blocks case, today flatly challenged the contention of Edward J. Flynn, Democratic boss of the Bronx, that he didn't know those 8,000 blocks were city owned when planted as a Belgian courtyard on his country estate.

W. B. Herlands.

This accusation was made before the senate foreign relations committee, considering Flynn's nomination as minister to Australia and roving ambassador in the Pacific war zone, by William B. Herlands, commissioner of investigation of the city of New York and chief assistant to Thomas E. Dewey when Dewey, now governor of New York, conducted the special rackets investigation.

"There is no direct evidence but certain circumstantial evidence which satisfies me that Flynn knew the origin and the nature of the materials used on his estate," declared Herlands. "The evidence tends to dispel the argument of innocence by Mr. Flynn on what was happening," he continued.

Furnished Car by City.

In fact, said the rackets prosecutor, it was nothing new for Boss Flynn to be using public property.

"The Bronx public works commissioner, Robert Moran, and some of his employés have permitted the use of city cars by Flynn for many years," Herlands told the committee. "As Moran testified in the paving blocks investigation, this practice started off as a custom and wound up as a habit. Either Flynn or one of his 'flunkies' would call up the borough president's office whenever he wanted a car."

He added that Flynn would use city owned station wagons whenever he wanted to cart luggage to or from the station in his trips.

"Leak" Prevented Prosecution.

Herlands, who undertook an investigation of the paving blocks mystery under instructions from Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York, declared that only premature release of information on the probe by Paul J. Kern, former civil service commissioner of New York City, prevented the establishment of a criminal case against Flynn and others involved in the use of city paving blocks, laid by city employés, on the Flynn estate at Carmel, N. Y.

"I know that in a criminal case—and we're not trying a criminal case before this committee—that you have to prove guilt without a doubt," said Herlands. "Here the premature breaking of the case ruined our chances of proving guilt beyond a doubt and we were intent on getting a criminal case."

There is no question nor dispute, he said, about the blocks being city property or the employés who did the job being on the city pay roll in November, 1941, when the Belgian courtyard was placed on the Flynn property. Two city owned station wagons were also used to transport the employés, Herlands and other witnesses have testified.

Flynn Denies Everything.

In his appearance before the committee Wednesday, Boss Flynn, who has just resigned as chairman of the Democratic national committee, denied all accusations against him and claimed innocence in the paving blocks scandal, asserting that he thought a private contractor had done the job.

He told the committee that his law partner, Monroe Goldwater, had made reparations for the blocks and labor when knowledge of Kern's investigation leaked out and when they first heard that Moran had used city property and labor in the work. This was more than two months after the paving had been done.

Flynn was an interested spectator

2 Navy Planes Overdue; Fear for 25 Aboard

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22 (AP).—The navy reported today that a transport seaplane, with 19 persons aboard, was more than 24 hours overdue on a flight from Pearl Harbor to San Francisco, Cal. No report from the big plane had been received since early Thursday morning when it circled in the vicinity of San Francisco, the navy said.

The navy also reported tonight that one of its twin-engined cargo transport land-type planes was overdue after taking off at 5:40 p. m., Pacific war time, yesterday from Winslow, Ariz., for San Pedro, Cal. Aboard the cargo plane were three officers and three enlisted men, cargo and mail.

Fog Prevented Landing.

At Flagstaff, Ariz., Sheriff Peery Francis, after a day long investigation, said he was certain the twin engined navy transport plane had come to rest somewhere in Schultz Pass, which grooves the 13,000 foot San Francisco peaks and 10,000 foot Mount Elden, north of Flagstaff.

The announcement on the missing seaplane said that fog and bad weather prevented a landing in the area at San Francisco.

"A search of wide land and sea area has failed as yet to reveal any sign of the transport. A crew of nine, and 10 naval officer passengers were aboard the plane," the navy announcement said.

Passengers' Names Withheld.

In the absence of definite information as to the fate of the craft, the navy declined to give out any information regarding the identity of those aboard or to give any details about the flight or the plane itself, except to say that it was a four engined seaplane.

At San Francisco, Vice Adm. John W. Greenslade, commander of the western sea frontier, said a widespread search by army and navy planes was under way in efforts to locate the missing plane from Hawaii. The search extended far to sea and inland to the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains.

Adm. Greenslade said the search would be continued, with additional planes scanning the area when weather conditions were favorable. Surface and aircraft of the northwestern sea frontier are coöperating in the search, he said.

RULE YANKS MUST USE ARMY MONEY ORDERS TO SEND FUNDS TO U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 22.—A new regulation announced today by United States army authorities in the European theater of operations prohibits soldiers and other military personnel from sending money to the United States except by army postal money order.

At the same time, postal authorities admitted that they were unable to name a single item which a soldier or other service man can request from home which would not conflict with the new ruling under which service men may ask relatives or friends in America to send them only goods which cannot be obtained here.

Before asking relatives to send him anything, the soldier must get written permission from his battalion commander.

HORSE SIRLOINS ON SALE TODAY IN SOUTH BEND

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 22 [Special].—Horse meat will go on sale here tomorrow, with a new store devoted exclusively to the product receiving a six ton shipment from a Rockford, Ill., packing plant.

The meat will be marketed as round steaks, sirloin steaks, chuck roasts, plate ribs, and hamburger. Opening of the market was delayed pending listing of price ceilings by office of price administration headquarters in Cleveland, O.

Price Ceiling Writ Issued.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 22 (AP).—The Louisville office of price administration today obtained a temporary restraining order in federal court against three local concerns which were accused of selling horse meat at prices higher than the ceiling of 8 cents a pound.

Shovel 3½ Miles of Snow to Clear Road for Stork

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 22.—Thanks to the efforts of 45 shovel wielding farmers, living about 70 miles north of Toronto, the stork won a race to the Alliston hospital where Mrs. Lorne Byers today gave birth to a daughter. Informed via the party line telephone that a birth was imminent in the home of a neighbor, the men proceeded to clear snow from 3½ miles of road from the home to the hospital.

Wins Victory for Rights of Individual

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 22.—Thomas Wilson, who for several months has been detained under defense regulation 18-B, won a victory for the constitutional rights of the individual when Minister of Home Security Herbert Morrison admitted yesterday that the home office official who had confiscated Wilson's letter to the British high court had "committed a grave error."

Official Stops Letter.

Wilson had appealed in the letter to the court for reconsideration of evidence against him. A home office official seized the document. Morrison explained that the prison authority had stopped the letter "because he thought this was an improper way for the applicant to approach the court."

The officer concerned will not be punished, Morrison said, but stated that "the strictures passed by the high court will serve as a valuable lesson to him and to all officers. Steps have been taken to see that a similar mistake shall not recur."

Asks $20,000 Damages.

Wilson took the matter to the high court asking 5,000 pounds [about $20,000] damages, and imprisonment of the home secretary, who at the time the incident occurred was John Anderson, for "contempt of court."

His real motive, Wilson said, was the principle involved. While he failed to collect damages or obtain the imprisonment of Anderson, he considered that he had established the justice of his case.

LEAVING AIR RAID SHELTER, BRITON NABS NAZI PILOT

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP).—Fred Ovendon, 16 year old British flying cadet, was leaving an air raid shelter after Sunday night's German raid on London when a man approached him in the darkness.

"Drink, drink," the stranger appealed.

Ovendon took him to his home. There the man admitted he was a German flyer who had bailed out of a Junkers-88 before it crashed. Ovendon turned the flyer over to the authorities.

HOUSE LEADERS ASSAIL REFUSAL TO UNLOAD SHIP

Denounce 'Despots' in Control of Labor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—That marines on Guadalcanal, weakened by hunger and malaria, were forced to unload food and supplies from merchant ships because civilian members of the crews refused to work on Sunday was branded by leaders in congress today as "unthinkable" and "a damnable outrage."

Rep. Carl Vinson.

After reading of the reports of three Akron, O., marines who witnessed the episode and corroborated by a navy pilot and two sailors who heard the story while they were in action in the Solomons, incensed congressmen declared that an immediate investigation should be launched. The navy pilot blamed the CIO National Maritime union for the outrage.

News Called Shocking.

"Accounts of the refusal of the ship crews to unload their cargoes were shocking news to the nation," said Rep. Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], chairman of the house naval affairs committee. "We are going to find out all about it.

"If it is true that merchant seamen are refusing to unload war materials at Guadalcanal, or any other war zone, congress should take cognizance of it and deal with it at once.

"Our fighting men should not be required to perform this work, regardless of what hour of the day, or day of the week it happens to be."

Navy to Rectify Situation.

The navy is moving to rectify such situations, members of congress were informed tonight.

Vinson said he had been informed by Adm. Ben Moreell, chief of the navy "Seabees," that longshoremen's units have been formed to unload supply craft in the war zones. He said all that Adm. Moreell told him couldn't be made public.

Rep. Howard W. Smith [D., Va.] branded this as just "one of the incidents that illustrates the result of the outrageous labor policies constantly pursued by this administration."

"That labor unions should prevent the unloading of supplies for our fighting men is unthinkable," declared Rep. John Z. Anderson [R., Cal.].

"Anything that delays the delivery of supplies needed by our men on the fighting front is a treasonable offense against our government and should be prosecuted as such.

Misguided Leaders Blamed.

"In most cases it isn't the workmen themselves that are responsible for such acts but their misguided leaders, those dismal despots of labor of such ilk as Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime union.

"I just wonder what support labor expects to get from these soldiers when they return from the fighting fronts after the war," the Californian said.

Sen. Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.], member of the senate naval affairs committee, said his answer to such action on the part of the merchant sailors would be found in a letter he read to the senate yesterday. The letter was from a marine, wounded on Guadalcanal, to a fellow worker in a west coast airplane factory.

Sees Buddies Slaughtered.

The marine, William Smith by name, had just seen 47 of his buddies slaughtered in a trap from which only 18 escaped—killed because "we didn't have enough bombers to reënforce our position," he said.

Recalling how many of his fellow workers had used to loaf on the job, the marine declared that if he could be back in the United States today and visit this plant he "would shoot dead every loafer" he could find.

"If I can only make the gang believe that work, work, and then more work is needed every hour of the day and night so that we can lick our enemies," he prayed.

Sen. Tydings concluded his remarks

British Capture Last of City's Main Defenses

BULLETIN.

LONDON, Jan. 23 (Saturday)—(AP).—The Daily Telegraph reported that "early today the Cairo radio announced that Tripoli had fallen."

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP).—The last important defenses of Tripoli were reported in British hands tonight and the main remnants of Marshal Erwin Rommel's fugitive Africa corps were believed to have escaped into Tunisia.

Only a small rear guard force had been left behind to engage in a bitter last minute defense of the capital and chief city and port of Mussolini's African empire which now was swept by demolition explosions and fires set by the withdrawing axis legions.

The axis flight was clearly visible to allied pilots who hovered over the burning city, and the Morocco radio said all important defenses had fallen.

[United States government monitors said this broadcast added: "The rest of the city is at present being subjected to a strong bombardment of artillery."]

Repulse Nazi Thrust.

The axis Tunisian army of Col. Gen. Jurgen von Arnim, already playing host to the Rommel corps, meanwhile was reported smashed back in battles of considerable scale for control of a mountain highland guarding Rommel's coastal escape corridor.

[British enthusiasm over Tripoli lags as Rommel's feat grows. Story on page 3.]

The headquarters of Gen. Henri Giraud reported that the French, with British reënforcements and with Americans in the thick of the action, had repulsed the easternmost of two German thrusts in central Tunisia and "made an advance of several miles" in the valley of Oued Kebir.

The westernmost thrust, to the northwest of the Ousselt hill, already had been reported halted.

"The enemy attack on our positions dominating the approaches to Kairouan 20 miles west of the town has completely failed," the French communique said.

Round Up Sahara Garrisons.

To the south, in the Libyan Sahara, the French communique reported, the last garrisons of Mussolini's empire were being rounded up.

The exact location of the British inside Tripoli was not disclosed, but the Morocco radio previously had reported the British in the suburbs. One wing was believed sweeping to the southwest in an effort to cut off the retreat of the enemy forces remaining in the city.

The Italians in Rommel's army, it was said, had been sent ahead into Tunisia, where they had gone 50 miles beyond the border.

The destruction yesterday, in the earlier phases of this continuing Tunisian action, of 10 enemy planes and some 65 axis motor vehicles was disclosed.

Official reports from allied headquarters in Cairo and in North Africa told of air attacks on Rommel's fugitives 25 miles deep into Tunisia as early as yesterday; of a continuing offensive patrol over the Mediterranean between Tunisia and the axis base of Sicily in which an axis freighter was sunk and a tanker damaged; of unending assaults upon Tripoli itself, of sweeps over both the Tunisian and Tripolitanian battle areas; of attacks on enemy transport from the Tripolitan frontier to Gabes.

WPB SILENCES AIR RAID SIREN TILL AFTER WAR!

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 22 [Special].—The war production board has recommended, in effect, to Larchmont village that it wait until the end of the war to blow three special air raid sirens recently purchased at the insistence of the office of civilian defense.

After buying the sirens, it was learned today, the Larchmont war council applied to the WPB for a priority to buy 97 feet of wire necessary to connect the devices with power lines. The reply from Ernest Kanzler, director of operations in the power branch of the war agency, said:

"We regret that this application cannot be approved. The requirements of direct war production make it imperative to conserve critical material. The construction described in your application should be deferred for the duration of the war."

The municipal council wrote again to the WPB protesting that Larchmont did not want to blow the sirens after the war. Kanzler's second reply rejected the appeal again.

CRUSH LAST JAP FORCE IN PAPUA AT SANANANDA

Sink 4 Enemy Ships in Rabaul Harbor.

ALLIED HDQ., Australia, Jan. 23 [Saturday]—(AP).—Exactly six months after the Japanese began their Papuan campaign with a landing at Gona, New Guinea, allied forces practically ended it yesterday by shattering the last organized resistance around Sanananda Point. Seven hundred and twenty-five bodies have been counted and the counting continued.

Thus Papua became the first complete geographical unit to be won back from the Japanese. It consists of about 90,000 square miles and has a population of about 300,000, mostly dark skinned natives.

The only activity left around Sananda is the stealthy pursuit of thinly scattered Japanese troops, wandering thru dense jungle. The majority of the Japs killed in yesterday's push were in a pocket about 2,500 yards from the beach on the water soaked Sanananda road.

Sink Four Enemy Ships.

Considerable equipment was captured, including field guns, trucks, and ammunition.

Striking at a large concentration of ships in the harbor at Rabaul, New Britain, four engine bombers flew thru a high altitude snowstorm, then dropped as low as 150 feet to sink four vessels totaling 24,000 tons. Direct hits were scored while the planes were in the midst of strong anti-aircraft fire and many searchlights.

"Direct hits on a 4,000 ton cargo ship split and sank the vessel within four minutes. An 8,000 ton transport was left burning as a result of two direct hits and later was seen to explode," the communique said.

"A 4,000 ton vessel with a lighter moored alongside was hit and sank within 12 minutes while another 8,000 ton vessel received three direct hits and was left burning with a series of explosions. All our planes returned safely."

Bomb Lae, Salamaua.

Allied planes again hit Lae and Salamaua. The Japs called at Merauke, Darwin and Milne bay with no damage resulting.

The allied triumph announced today was the climax of a series of maneuvers which rolled the Japs back over the mountains and caused them to surrender in turn Gona and then Buna from which their drive across the mountains began last July.

American and Australian troops carried on this brilliant offensive while allied planes blasted attempts of the Japs to send reënforcements from nearby island bases.

Eleven Thousand Japs Slain.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22 (AP).—Japan has lost more than 11,000 men in the land fighting on Guadalcanal Island, a marine officer fresh from the battle front reported today, and the remaining enemy force numbers less than 4,000.

"I believe that in a 10 day operation using the available men there we could clean the Japanese out," Lt. Col. Lewis B. Puller declared.

Col. Puller was wounded seven times in a single battle last Nov. 8. He left Guadalcanal Jan. 1.

Puller said that soldiers, sailors, and marines unload all supply ships at the island. He made the statement at an informal press conference in which he was told of a story in the Akron Beacon Journal quoting six Guadalcanal veterans as saying union seamen of a merchant ship lying off the island refused to unload their ship on Sunday.

Mop Up Guadalcanal Foes.

"They've had no difficulties of this nature in the Solomons," Puller said. "All the ships are unloaded as a matter of routine by the soldiers, sailors or marines. Even those brought in by merchant seamen—of which there are very few, because most of the ships are transports—are unloaded by soldiers, sailors or marines."

The navy communique on latest developments in the Solomons reported ground forces on Guadalcanal were "mopping up pockets of enemy resistance" and on Thursday had made small advances in some sectors.

The communique said American aircraft raided Ballale Island, about 300 nautical miles northwest of Guadalcanal air field, but results were not observed. The Japanese sent a lone plane against Espiritu Santo, an American base in the New Hebrides Islands, but did no damage or injury to personnel.

REVEAL EXCESS COST OF PLANTS TO MAKE RUBBER

Use Expensive Equipment, Senators Told.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—An apparent excess of half a billion dollars in the cost of the government's tardy synthetic rubber program was uncovered today by a senate investigation committee. Senators hinted at international influences and monopoly influences as explanations for what Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] described as "either stupidity or something worse."

Sen. B. K. Wheeler.

The half billion dollars relates to plant construction rather than to production of the tire material. The government is spending between 700 and 750 million dollars for plants with a capacity of 1,100,000 tons a year. Most of the program has been assigned for operation to large petroleum companies and to the Carbide and Carbon Chemical company.

Polish Process Cheaper.

Testimony today indicated that a production capacity of 1,100,000 tons a year could have been attained by a plant investment of approximately 200 million dollars by adoption of a Polish process for using alcohol as owned by the Publicker Commercial Alcohol company of Philadelphia.

Witnesses further told of handicaps and blockades encountered in governmental agencies in perfecting this process and in constructing a small plant for synthetic production at Philadelphia. Wheeler, who was acting chairman, called it "sabotage." The senators said they will try to get allocations of materials for prompt completion of this plant when Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the war production board, appears before the group next Tuesday.

Closing of Plants Proposed.

"Maybe the boys didn't want you to build a plant because you were using private rather than public money," Wheeler suggested to the witness, Charles L. Gabriel, vice president of Publicker. "You know some of the post-war planners propose that we discard this synthetic industry after the war."

"Maybe our process looks too permanent," Gabriel commented.

The Publicker process was brought to America by Waclaw Szukiewicz, who owned an alcohol rubber plant in Poland before the war. He was in Italy, building two plants there at the request of French appeasers, when Mussolini declared war on France.

William S. B. Lacy, chief of the foreign information section of the office of price administration, told the investigation committee that Szukiewicz, arrested by the Fascists as an enemy alien, was smuggled to the United States in November, 1941, because of his value in arms production.

Placed Orders in May.

Gabriel and Dr. Lewis H. Marks, another vice president, said they placed orders for all of the material and parts needed for their plant last May. They are building a small factory to make annually between 1,200 and 1,500 tons of butadiene, principal synthetic ingredient.

The two associates said the cost will approximate $400,000, all to be paid by the company, none by the government. They presented the committee with an engineering study prepared by Stone and Webster estimating that a plant using this process to make 10,000 tons of butadiene annually would cost $2,123,000, and one to make 20,000 tons a year would cost $2,778,000 a year. Gabriel said that the investment in larger plants could be roughly approximated at $139 for each ton of capacity.

Government Program Costlier.

Under the government's program, using other processes, the investment of taxpayers' money ranges from $300 to $1,200 per ton of capacity. Paul E. Hadlick, attorney for the committee, reckoned that on the basis of figures from Gabriel and Marks the entire 750 million dollar government plant construction program could be built for 200 million dollars.

Farmer Must Plan His Crops on Time Table to Raise Yield

BY GAIL COMPTON.

Crop rotation is one of the means which farmers will employ this year to meet increased food demands.

The farmer who has grown alfalfa hay for his beef cattle, clover hay for his sheep, and timothy for his horses will have to limit himself to one type of fodder to avoid being swamped with work. If he has to spend most of the summer getting in his various hay crops he will have little time for corn plowing, silage making, or small grain harvesting.

Hay Silage Palatable.

More and more farmers will find it advisable to substitute alfalfa silage for corn silage. The hay silage is extremely palatable to cattle and makes an excellent roughage. The work of ensiling the first cutting of alfalfa comes at a time when men and machines can best be spared. It does away with the more laborious job of ensiling corn, and permits the farmer to devote his corn acreage to feed corn.

In planning his work the farmer must select crops that will spread the work of planting and harvesting thruout the season. If he finds himself with two or three different crops to harvest or cultivate at the same time, lack of help and machinery may result in heavy or total crop losses.

The farmer who sowed a field to rye last fall is fortunate. The grain will give an excellent pasture until regular pastures are ready.

Urges Cut in Wheat Acreage.

If possible the farmer should keep his wheat acreage small. Fall sown wheat demands harvesting when the farmer is busy getting his other crops planted or cultivated. Spring seeded wheat also demands labor at a time when work could be done more profitably elsewhere.

The low price at which wheat is available to stock feeders makes buying it preferable to growing it. The wheat acreage can be put to corn or hemp or soy beans, for which there is a much greater need and from which the farmer will realize better financial returns.

Buckwheat is a sturdy, well paying crop that can be planted late in the season when there is more time available. It is resistant to most diseases and can be planted wherever a hay field fails or weeds need smothering.

Frost Ruined Soy Beans.

The farmer must use care in selecting the varieties of the crops he is to plant. Many farmers learned a hard lesson this year when an early frost cut thru their fields of soy beans, nipping the pods before they were ripe. Heavy losses were incurred mainly by those who planted late maturing varieties.

If the farmer will select his varieties according to their early or late maturity he will be able to arrange a program in which his crops will become ripe one after the other, allowing him time to handle each. Thus the work of harvesting will be more even and the farmer will stand a better chance of harvesting his crops.

With the nation facing a food shortage, a great responsibility rests upon the farmer. Upon his ability as a farm manager and planner depends the chance of producing enough food for the army and navy with an adequate surplus to handle civilian needs.

CANADA MAKES DRAFT AGE MEN SUBJECT TO SHIFT INTO WAR WORK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 22.—The Canadian government today modified original proposals which would have made all workers liable to compulsory transfer into war jobs. Canada's new man power regulations announced by Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell make only men of military age subject to compulsory acceptance of alternative employment. Such persons refusing either to enter military service or accept the specified employment are liable to jail, the minister said.

An employed Canadian may be authorized under the new regulations to leave his present job on seven days' notice and accept other employment when the worker agrees, even tho his contract may ordinarily require longer notice, and the government guarantees reinstatement for the worker in his former job.

63,000 OPA Pay Roll Will Cost 121 Millions

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22 (AP).—The joint congressional economy committee was told today that the office of price administration planned to have 63,000 persons on its pay roll by July 1 at an aggregate salary of 121 million dollars. This would mean an increase of 27,279 employés since Oct. 31, 1942.

ASSAILS WASTE OF GASOLINE BY BUROCRATS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22 (AP).—"A little 'cracking down' on some of the useless driving that is being done by certain government employés and burocrats in the nation's capital" was demanded in the house today by Rep. Edward H. Rees [R., Kas.].

Rees said he had read "that federal officials in Washington, exclusive of those in the war and navy departments, traveled about 673,000 miles during the last month—27 times the mileage around the earth." He added:

"According to figures from the procurement division of the treasury department, government department automobiles in the District of Columbia consumed 44,868 gallons of gasoline in the month of December, 1942. This does not include army and navy automobiles. This is 15 per cent more than was consumed during the same period last year."

WICKARD CURBS MILK SALES OF LESS THAN QUART

Another U. S. Order Cuts Civilian Use of Dye.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22 [Special].—A series of new restrictive orders issued by the government today imposed economies on consumer products ranging from milk to lipstick and nail polish. The edicts will limit the marketing of milk in small size containers and reduce the coloring in a variety of consumer accessories, including civilian clothing.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard decreed that no more pints or half pints of milk may be delivered to homes or sold in retail stores and that deposits must be collected on bottles and other containers. His order, which means the quart will become the minimum milk unit in most cases, will take effect Feb. 1.

Seek Increase for Farmers.

Wickard, who acted under his authority as food administrator, said producer price increases may be necessary in some areas to encourage greater milk production, but added that distributor savings should make price increases to consumers unnecessary or should at least retard them.

He explained that his order will conserve bottles, man power, delivery equipment, gasoline, and rubber tires. He said the order aims at letting distributors pay farmers more for milk.

Deposits were ordered to lengthen the life of containers. Deposits must not be less than 1 cent for each glass container of four quarts or less used for consumption off the handler's premises and not less than 25 cents each for cans and cases.

The directive said milk may be loaded only on advance or standing orders.

Exempt Army and Navy.

The order eliminating container sizes below a quart except instances where the milk is to be resold for consumption on the premises, which would allow eating places to continue selling milk in small bottles. The army and navy were exempted from this rule and the one on container deposits.

The order pertaining to coloring was issued by the war production board, which directed that civilian use of organic pigments be reduced an average of 40 per cent below 1941 levels. The order, retroactive to Jan. 1, will affect consumers as follows:

Clothing and textiles—No longer will be made in so many bright or dark shades, manufacturers being required to spread their supply of dyes.

Printed fabrics—Will contain more white space; fewer colored prints will be available.

Photos—Some will be made in lighter shades.

Lipstick and nail polish—Will face restrictions on bright shades.

Paints and lacquers—May appear in less variety and, in some cases, only in lighter shades.

FEW AFFECTED HERE.

Chicago milk dealers estimated yesterday that less than 3 per cent of the milk sold in Chicago is distributed in pints or half pints and that virtually all of this is sold by restaurants, hotels, and other places where the milk is consumed on the premises. Few families, therefore, will be affected by an order issued yesterday in Washington banning deliveries of these sizes to stores and homes.

FUEL OIL COUPON 4 WILL BECOME VALID JAN. 31, WEEK EARLY

The office of price administration late yesterday granted Chicago area fuel oil users a one week advantage on their period 4 fuel oil coupons and retained the 10 per cent increase in the coupon value. The validity date of the No. 4 coupons was advanced from Feb. 7 to Jan. 31.

John C. Weigel, regional OPA director, had recommended moving up the validity date to Jan. 23 to allow for the extreme cold early this week. Respite from the subzero weather apparently led the OPA fuel oil division in Washington to reduce the advantage to fuel oil users.

The 10 per cent increase in the coupon value instituted last month for period 3 coupons was canceled for period 4 coupons in southern Illinois and southern parts of Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, and Kansas, where the increase had been effective, but was retained for Chicago and northern Illinois. The original coupon value for residential heating was 10 gallons and for large users 100 gallons. The 10 per cent bonus raised the values to 11 and 110 gallons, respectively.

COMMONS GETS FIRST GLIMPSE OF WARTIME BREAD

Potatoes and Oats in New 'National' Loaf.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The recipe for war time national bread was given out for the first time today.

William Mabane, parliamentary secretary for the food ministry, told the house of commons that, apart from wheat, salt, and "various improvers recognized as adjuncts of bread baking," the permitted ingredients are "wheat flour of 85 per cent extraction, imported white flour, oats products, barley, rye, milk powder, and calcium." Bakers also may use a proportion of potatoes and potato flour.

Varies with Localities.

The composition of national bread is not standardized thruout the country, Mabane said, but the proportion of dilutants, "altho it may vary slightly in different areas, does not generally exceed 5 per cent."

The British Hotels and Restaurants association today advised its members to serve bread only in small pieces, and rolls of not more than one-half ounce weight; not to place butter on the table because it "encourages consumption of bread," and to serve large portions of potatoes and other vegetables.

Loss of Burma Felt.

In the future the bread roll in restaurants will be merely a "bread knob," L. S. Amery, secretary of state for India, informed commons. Loss of the Burma rice crop as a result of the Jap occupation, coupled with increased demands for army consumption and failure of the millet crop in India, has caused prices to rise and food shortages in many parts of the country.

With care and proper distribution, Amery said, there should be sufficient to go around and no need for alarm. Rationing in urban areas, where the shortage is most acute, is being considered.

Efforts of the government of India to centralize wheat and other food purchases and distribution, Amery admitted, were disappointing "owing to hoarding and profiteering."

O. K. BILL TO PUT LABOR COSTS IN PARITY FORMULA

Include Wages of Farmer's Own Family in Move.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22 (AP).—The farm bloc's drive for higher parity prices gained headway today when the house agriculture committee unanimously approved a bill to revise the parity formula to include costs of all farm labor, including the farmer's family.

Parity is a theoretical price designed to give any unit of farm output the same value in terms of purchasing power that it had in a past period favorable to agriculture. Labor costs have not hitherto figured in the formula.

Expects Billion Increase.

Committee members discovered after the meeting that their action was technically unofficial, in that Republican committee appointments for the 78th congress have not yet been approved by a house vote. One member said the committee would meet after the house approves the Republicans and report the bill again.

Rep. Stephen Pace [D., Ga.], the bill's author, said it would create "no considerable increase" in this year's living costs, "certainly less than 1 billion dollars."

Opposition by President Roosevelt last fall staved off a parity change. Government experts then contended it would raise parity levels—used in computing wartime agricultural price ceilings and floors—by 10 to 12 per cent and bring an inflationary rise in living costs.

Holds Move Necessary.

Rep. Clifford R. Hope [R., Kas.] said, following the committee action:

"The farmer must be enabled to pay the labor he needs to produce food. I believe the attitude of many who have opposed this legislation has changed."

Rep. Hampton P. Fulmer [D., S. C.], committee chairman, said he hoped to get the bill before the house for action next week and predicted it soon would be on the president's desk.

ROMMEL'S FEAT DAMPENS BRITISH JOY OVER TRIPOLI

His Retreat Seen as Great Military Operation.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The fall of Tripoli, which is regarded as an immediate certainty, failed to create any excessive enthusiasm here today. It is becoming more and more apparent that Marshal Erwin Rommel's retreat is as unprecedented a military feat as Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's 1,200 mile advance across the desert.

There are no doubts now as to where Rommel is heading and where he intends to give battle. It also seems clear that despite the overwhelming superiority of Montgomery's British-American air cover and all types of ground forces, the 8th army will be taxed to the utmost to break thru and make contact with allied forces attacking Tunis from the other side.

It was learned tonight that in addition to destroying everything of military value in Tripoli the axis forces sank ships filled with concrete to make the harbor unusable.

Nazis Fly Troops to Algeria.

The landing of German airborne troops deep in southern Algeria and the heavy reënforcements sent to Crete indicate the enemy intends to take every advantage of the extended allied communications lines in Tripolitania, Tunisia, and Algeria.

It was suggested that the heaviest attack on the axis be left to Montgomery, owing to the size of his army and experience of his men in modern warfare, and that Lt. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's force be used mainly to contain the axis where it is now. Montgomery also was said to have an advantage in morale inasmuch as his army has been victorious and Rommel's Africa corps must be demoralized by its long retreat.

In the battle for Tunis time is a vital element. Delays already have given plenty of time for the Germans to fortify all the European coast of the Mediterranean. This alone is arousing fears that Africa no longer provides a springboard for a great invasion of the "soft underbelly of Europe" as pictured by Prime Minister Winston Churchill.

Clamor for Second Front.

Owing to the long lines of communications and activities of U-boats, the clamor for a direct second front from the British Isles is becoming louder. The din is expected to become more audible with every delay in achieving Churchill's objective of complete destruction of axis forces in North Africa.

Among the suggested theaters for this second front is Norway. It is favored by many owing to the possibility of achieving a direct military line with the Russian armies thru Finland.

The Norwegian government in London tonight reported that Norwegian newspapers are being encouraged by the Nazis to emphasize the likelihood of such an attack, but to impart the impression that "German fortifications are strong enough everywhere, so that the local population will be deterred from giving assistance to any invading force."

The same source also said that the Germans are contemplating the possibility of a Russian attack upon the northernmost frontier of Norway and to meet this have dispatched strong detachments of troops to Finland. Kirkenes, in Norway's far north, is said to have been evacuated because the Germans fear it may be outflanked by a Russian invasion of the Varanger peninsula.

MAP GLOBAL STRATEGY

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP).—Decisions on the allied nations' 1943 world strategy are believed here to be in the making. Topping the list are thought to be:

FIRST—Creation of a genuine allied war council including representatives of the United States, Britain, Russia, and China.

SECOND—Quick settlement of the North African political squabble and consolidation of the British and American command in North Africa with the view to future operations designed for the opening of a second front in Europe.

THIRD—Coördination of the efforts of all the major allied nations for simultaneous air, sea, and land drives in 1943 to finish off the axis in Europe before the end of the year if possible, or at any rate in 1944, and then turn their full power against Japan.

FOURTH—A concerted campaign at sea to put the allies on the offensive in the last element in which they still are on the defensive—undersea warfare.

Rommel Flees Into Tunisia

ESTIMATE ROMMEL HAD 12 DIVISIONS IN EGYPT BEFORE ROUT

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP).—Military circles here estimate Marshal Erwin Rommel had 12 divisions of axis troops at his disposal when the British opened their offensive at El Alamein last October.

Of these, four were German—two infantry and two armored. The Italians had two armored divisions in addition to six divisions of infantry. A German division when at full strength consists of approximately 14,000 men, an Italian division about 10,000.

Thus Rommel is estimated to have had about 126,000 men when he began his long retreat across Egypt and Libya, but he is believed to have lost perhaps half of his force in killed or captured betwen Alamein and Tripoli.

BARE U. S. DATA ON AXIS SPY RING IN ARGENTINA

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Jan. 22 (AP).—A memorandum charging a vast spy ring is operating in Argentina, directed and financed by the German embassy at Buenos Aires and acting on instructions from the Nazi high command, was published today by the Inter-American Committee for Political Defense

The report—submitted by the United States—said the ring's operations affected 11 American republics, that its top men acted under diplomatic immunity, and that it sent to Berlin information on ship movements, United States troop transfers, airplane routes from Natal in Brazil to North Africa, and even facts on United States plane production.

The counties listed as affected by the espionage are Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Cuba, Ecuador, the United States, Mexico, Paraguay, Uruguay, and Venezuela.

The 40 page document names at least 30 members of the ring, including Capt. Dietrich Niebuhr, whom Berlin is withdrawing as naval air attaché at the request of the Argentine government, and Gen. Gunther Niedenfuhr, until recently military attaché at the same embassy.

10 NAZI BOMBERS REACH U. S. FIELD, NONE GETS BACK

Illinois Flyer Bags One in Central Tunisia.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AN ADVANCED U. S. AIR FIELD IN CENTRAL TUNISIA, Jan. 15 [Delayed].—There must be great wailing—even dissension—in the enemy camp tonight. Ten JU-88 bombers came over this afternoon, and none went back. With the possible exception of one plane known to have been damaged by anti-aircraft guns, every one of the enemy bombers was shot down by the heavy machine guns of American War Hawks—the well known P-40's.

One bomber crashed in flames for the first victory of the French La Fayette escadrille. All of the others fell victims of American youngsters engaging in their first combat.

Youngster Bags Four Bombers.

For most of these young pilots it was the first time they had seen a German plane while flying. And for one small town youngster, Capt. Carmon B. [Daniel] Boone, 24 years old, of Boone Mill, Va., it was a golden day in which he almost qualified as an ace. Boone got four bombers—one short of the number necessary to become an ace.

The middle west was well represented in the scoring. The squadron leader, Maj. Mark E. Hubbard, 29 years old, of St. Paul, Minn., brought down two bombers, while a third fell to an Illinois boy, the squadron's "baby," 2d Lt. Carl L. Beggs of Christopher. Beggs is 21 years old and an expert gunner.

Three Italian fighter planes, which escorted the bombers, escaped but only after a severe mauling by four escadrille pilots.

Worst Beating for Foe.

This afternoon's battle was one of the worst beatings taken by an enemy formation on this front and it came after a bad morning in which German planes during two raids knocked down a French pilot and a few hours later strafed and bombed the field.

Most of today's action took place in a brilliant blue sky. I watched it from a shallow trench which afforded shelter from thudding bombs, shrapnel, and from ack-ack.

The bombers and their escort arrived shortly after we received a warning from two escadrille pilots aloft on a routine patrol.

Maj. Hubbard and Lt. Beggs, on the alert line, had taken off a few minutes before the warning was received. As the bombs began falling, Capt. Boone and another pilot took to the air.

U. S. and Mexico Conclude Pact for Draft of Nationals

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22 (AP).—The state department announced tonight the conclusion of an agreement between the United States and Mexico providing for induction into military service of nationals of either country residing in the other on the same conditions as the country's own nationals.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22 (AP).—The navy today announced 95 casualties, including 18 dead, 37 wounded, and 40 missing. The list brought to 21,629 the total number of navy, marine, and coast guard casualties reported since Dec. 7, 1941. The total includes 6,386 dead, 3,900 wounded, and 11,343 missing.

Among the dead was listed Gilbert G. Gray, private first class, of the marines, whose mother, Mrs. Catherine Gray, lives at 2112 South 28th court, Cicero.

The list of wounded included the name of Philip J. Moceri, private, marine reserves, whose mother, Mrs. Jennie Moceri, resides at 4509 Jackson boulevard, Chicago.

CHICAGOAN WOUNDED.

A third brother is Louis Rubenstein, international representative of the Retail Clerks International Protective association.

'ON TO TRIPOLI' IS WAR CRY AS DRIVE BEGINS

CAIRO, Egyt, Jan. 19 [Delayed]—(AP).—The British 8th army's final drive to clean up Tripolitania began at dawn Jan. 15 with Gen. Bernard Montgomery's war cry: "On to Tripoli!"

His order of the day was read to the troops huddled together in small groups just before they attacked.

"Leading units of the 8th army are now only about 200 miles from Tripoli," the order said. "The 8th army is going to Tripoli.

"Tripoli is the only town in the Italian overseas empire still remaining in their possession. Therefore we will take it from them; they will then have no empire.

"Nothing has stopped us since the battle of Egypt began Oct. 23. Nothing will stop us now."

BLAZE AT QUARTERMASTER DEPOT.

A small blaze believed to have been of spontaneous origin broke out yesterday in a broom stockroom at the army quartermaster depot, 1749 Pershing road. The fire was extinguished before city firemen arrived.

EX-NEW DEALER ASSAILS SECRECY ON AFRICA DELAY

High Blames Roosevelt for Any Disunity.

A disservice is being done the United States by the New Deal administration's failure to tell what "gummed up the works in North Africa," Stanley High, author and lecturer, declared here yesterday on his way back to New York after a nation-circling trip.

The former adviser to President Roosevelt believes any disunity in the nation can be laid to what he terms "the White House cloak of secrecy over the office of war information and everything else."

High addressed 500 members of the Executives club of Chicago in the Hotel Sherman on "Secret Weapons." A few hours later in an interview he took the OWI to task.

"OWI Falls Flat on Face."

"The OWI has fallen flat on its face in its job of dishing out news," he said. "How can the Americans be expected to form accurate opinions? Nobody in the world can stop them from forming opinions if the White House won't let them know what's going on. If military secrets legitimately freeze news out of North Africa, then the New Deal should, in some adequate manner, let us have a logical reason for this lack of information."

High deplored the transformation which, he said, takes place in most of the highly intelligent people who go to Washington. "They're sucked in by the whirlpool of burocracy and they keep quiet ever after," he observed.

Predicts Economic Storms.

In his speech to the Executives club, High predicted heavy storms would beat upon the American economic system after the war. "The fight over our economic status quo won't do us much good because the fight is being taken out of the people's hands by those over whom we have no control," he declared.

"We Americans are not out to save the British empire," he said, and added that he didn't like many things about the British, "including the old school tie." He predicted that when the war was won, there will be no doubt on the part of the British, Nazis, and Japanese as to who really had won the war—the United States military men and the people back home.

Gas Uncertainty Halts Ontario License Sale

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 22.—Because of uncertainty concerning gasoline allowances after April 1, Ontario motorists virtually have ceased buying 1943 licenses. The resultant loss of revenue to the Ontario government has aroused concern. License purchases dropped suddenly when it was reported that the oil controler might eliminate all pleasure driving.

NATIVES' CHICKEN BROTH REVIVES THREE ON ISLAND

Navy Doctor Arrives to Aid Rick's Crewmen.

[This is the 12th instalment of the story—told here in full for the first time—of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and seven companions and their three weeks' fight for life against the perils of the equatorial Pacific. It is told by Lt. James C. Whittaker of the army transport command, co-pilot of the Flying Fortress which was crashed into the sea Oct. 21 after running out of fuel. The concluding instalment will appear tomorrow.]

BY LT. JAMES C. WHITTAKER,
U. S. Army Air Force Transport Command.
As Told to CHARLES LEAVELLE, of The Chicago Tribune.
[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

I have had a lot of soup in my day and probably will have a lot more. But the soup I always will remember was that rich chicken broth the natives prepared for me last Nov. 13 on a palm covered island in the Pacific.

It was just what I needed after 21 days adrift in a rubber life raft and two days of eating coconut and uncooked animal meat before the natives found me and my two companions, Lt. John De Angelis and Staff Sergt. James W. Reynolds.

They had been navigator and radio operator, respectively, of the Flying Fortress we put down in the sea, out of fuel, on Oct. 21 while carrying Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and his aide on a war department mission. Rickenbacker and the others had been picked up at sea by navy scout planes after De Angelis, Reynolds, and I reached our island.

Doctor Saves Reynolds' Life.

The soup, whose aroma had tantalized me for hours, was wonderfully strengthening. It revived De Angelis also, but poor Reynolds was perilously near the end. Help, however, was on the way.

The island garrison had radioed for medical assistance and soon after we had eaten our soup, a navy plane landed, bringing a physician, a Lt. Hall, who began the injections of glucose that saved Reynolds' life. Lt. Hall also ministered to De Angelis and me.

We got first hand news of our friends from Lt. [j. g.] Fred E. Woodward, who had flown Lt. Hall to our island. It was Woodward's observer, Lester Boute, aviation radioman, second class, whose keen eyes had sighted the tiny raft of Capt. William T. Cherry Jr., our Fortress pilot and commander. He had struck out alone on the afternoon of our 20th day.

Cherry told his rescuers that we three were in the area as were Rickenbacker, Col. Hans Adamson, his aide, and Pvt. Johnny Bartek, who had been engineer of our Fortress. We all owe a debt of gratitude to Boute, for Cherry's rescue led to all the others.

How Three Were Rescued.

"Rick," Col. Adamson, and Bartek owe a special debt of gratitude to Lt. William F. Eadie and his Kingfisher squadron who found them. Here is how Eadie rescued the men:

The scout plane could not direct surface craft to the Rickenbacker raft because of rain squalls. It was growing dark and there was danger the little boat would be lost again so Lt. Eadie nosed his plane down and landed it on the rolling sea beside the raft, 40 miles from land.

Aided by his observer, Eadie got Col. Adamson out of the raft and placed him in the rear cockpit. The colonel appeared to be near death. They lashed Rickenbacker and Bartek to the plane's wings.

This so loaded the light Kingfisher that Eadie was unable to get it into the air, so he started taxiing toward land over the rough sea. After an hour of this he made contact with surface craft to which Rickenbacker and Bartek were transferred.

Because of Col. Adamson's condition, it was deemed best to leave him in the plane, which Lt. Eadie now taxied the remaining distance to a marine manned island.

Ordered to Bed.

By the time I had learned these details from Woodward, Lt. Hall was ordering me to bed. Members of the garrison gave up their bunks to the three of us and stayed up to lend Lt. Hall any assistance he might need.

The cot given to me seemed to have been afflicted with St. Vitus dance, or something. It dumped me on the floor twice during the night. I guess I still was flexing myself against the rolling of the raft I had been in.

The next day, Nov. 14, was my birthday and it was auspicious in many ways. I felt 100 per cent better that morning. Before long, delegations of native women began arriving bearing gifts of mats, fans, shells, and grass hula skirts. We held court like native chieftains.

There was much bowing and giggling. The translating was done by the father of Toma, the head man in the outrigger that picked me up. The father, a sub chief of the tribe, had been a chef on a trading steamer and had made a number of trips to San Francisco. Thru him we told the ladies how much we appreciated the kindliness and hospitality of their tribe. America soon would know all about them, we said. They were thrilled.

Surprise! Toma Brings Cigarets.

Toma is 19 years old, stands well over 6 feet, and is handsomely proportioned. He is about the color of honey and has live and intelligent eyes. After we had finished our cocoanut milk the day Toma's outrigger picked me up, I was asked if I wanted anything else.

I replied jokingly that I could use an American cigaret. Toma was off like a shot, running into the palm woods. In a few minutes he was back and handed me a package of American cigarets. I was thunderstruck.

Eventually he made me understand that white men of the garrison had given them to him and that he had buried them, intending to dig them up for Christmas.

Just before we left Toma offered a gift that really touched me. It was a model of the outrigger in which he picked me up. When a native builds a boat he also builds a model of it. So long as the model is safe, he feels that the boat is safe. The model, therefore, is jealously guarded. Few natives will let one out of their keeping. Toma told me with great earnestness that I must keep it safe. If anything should happen to it, he assured me, disaster would overtake the big outrigger.

Toma Asks for Soap.

When we left I asked Toma what he would like me to send him. He was very shy and assured me he wanted nothing. I pressed him and at last in a very low voice he said something about enjoying half a cake of soap. He said something, too, about trousers.

By now Toma is the owner of three suits, a carton of soap, and plenty of cigarets to replace the ones he gave me. This store of worldly goods will make the lad a chief, at least.

Toma's model occupies a place of honor in my home. And not far away from it, mounted and polished, is the empty flareshell from which we drank our doles of water and which Reynolds used to pour sea water down my back while I rowed to the island on our 21st day.

Our stay ended in the early evening when a navy vessel commanded by Lt. Comm. Frank A. Monroe Jr. reached the island. The medical officer, Lt. Richard W. Garrity, took us in charge and we said good-by to the natives.

The chief invited us to return as soon as the war is over and to make our homes on the island. He said that to make sure we would like it, we could come first for a short visit—say a year. Meanwhile, he would build an addition to his house so we might all live close together. "Make chummy," he explained.

[To be concluded tomorrow.]

'IT WAS US'—THAT'S ALL RICK'S RESCUER ADMITS ABOUT FEAT

An extremely modest man is Lt. William F. Eadie, 29 year old navy flyer whose thrilling rescue of Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker and two of his companions in the Pacific is told in today's instalment of THE TRIBUNE'S story of their three weeks' struggle against the sea.

Lt. W. F. Eadie.

A terse, one sentence comment of eight words comprises the total amount of information Lt. Eadie has been willing to give about his part in the heroic rescue.

"Since you are wondering, yes it was us," he wrote in response to the many queries made by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William G. Eadie, 124 Callan avenue, Evanston.

Naval authorities, however, have not been so reticent and have commended Lt. Eadie for his cool thinking in the rescue operation.

Lt. Eadie was graduated from Northwestern university in 1935 and immediately enlisted as an aviation cadet in the navy.

He has served aboard the aircraft carrier Lexington and on the heavy cruiser Northampton. Both of these ships have since been sunk.

Immediately after the attack on Pearl Harbor, Lt. Eadie was sent to the South Pacific and has remained there ever since. He has a 1 year old daughter whom he has never seen.

Cessna, Tribune Employe, Wins Army Commission

William A. Cessna, who was in charge of the Tribune reference department until he enlisted in the army last June 29, has been commissioned a second lieutenant. He recently completed the officer candidate course in the infantry school at Fort Benning, Georgia. Lt. Cessna was graduated from high school in Webster City, Ia., and attended Drake university at Des Moines, Ia. His home is at 5136 Blackstone avenue.

NO WORKERS CAN EQUAL SOLDIERS' SACRIFICES: RICK

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 22 (AP).—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker today told arms production workers and engineers of the Detroit area that no effort they could add to that already being given could equal the sacrifices soldiers of the United States and its allies are making in the "hell holes thruout the Pacific and the burning sands of Africa."

"None of us is doing so much that he cannot do more," he said in a tour of arms factories, and again in a radio broadcast at a dinner tonight of the Detroit section of the Society of Automotive Engineers.

Christens Bomber.

At the great Ford Willow Run bomber plant where Rickenbacker was escorted by Henry and Edsel Ford, and accompanied by Lt. Gen. William S. Knudsen, production expediter of the war department, the hero of two wars christened the latest of the big B-24 D consolidated four engined bombers to come off the crowded assembly lines. The big ship had Rickenbacker's famed "hat-in-the-ring" symbol painted on its side on which he inscribed his name in large chalk letters.

In a press conference during the day, the World War I. flying ace predicted that with the coming of peace aviation would be the biggest industry in the world. The airplane, by bringing peoples of the world closer together, he added, would enable them better to understand each other's problems. "Thus," he said, "what now is the greatest instrument of war will become an angel of peace."

Forget About Hours.

"If you could understand what our boys are doing in the hell holes thruout the world that your way of life may be preserved," he said in his address tonight, "you would not worry about eight hours a day, overtime, or double time for Saturdays and holidays. No, you would be and should be grateful for the privilege of offering everything you know how."

As a special message to the engineers, Rickenbacker said:

"Everything that is needed for the troops on the ground and in the field should be designed with one thought in mind, of making it simple to disassemble and reassemble so they may be transported by air—it is an absolute necessity."

LYLE BECOMES NIGHT OWL FOR OWL CAR PROBE

If you saw John H. Lyle, former alderman, legislator, and judge, out at 4 a. m. today or even later, don't think he's leading a fast life. Lyle promised that in his independent candidacy for the Republican mayoral nomination he would make a personal investigation of street car service on the "owl runs."

Lyle said he would note the passengers waiting for street cars, the duration of the wait, crowded conditions of the cars, and that at each intersection he would interview civilians, asking suggestions for improvements.

On his schedule were 63d street and Wentworth avenue, 75th street and Ashland avenue, 79th street and Ashland avenue, 79th street and Racine avenue, and 79th and Halsted streets.

RUSSIANS RETAKE SALSK, AIR-RAIL KEY IN CAUCASUS

20 Mile Advance Nets Big Goal of Southern Drive.

LONDON, Jan. 23 [Saturday]—(AP).—The important rail junction and 152 German air base of Salsk, 100 miles southeast of Rostov, fell to the Russian army of the Caucasus today and the soviets also were fast encircling Voroshilovgrad, capital of the Donetz basin north of Rostov, according to the soviet monitor's recording to two Moscow communiques early today.

A special communique last night announced the fall of Salsk after a 20 mile advance. The midnight bulletin told of the capture of Nova Aidar, 30 miles northwest of Voroshilovgrad. This important Russian gain put the Red army only 50 miles northeast of Artemovsk, big rail city on the line running south to Taganrog, on the Sea of Azov west of Rostov. The midnight bulletin also recounted the seizure of Konstantinovskaya, apparently the important Don river city 75 miles northeast of Rostov.

Capture of Salsk Important.

Salsk's capture was most important because it put the Russians within 70 miles of Tikhoretsk, where the Stalingrad railway meets the main line running north. Cutting of this line would leave the Nazis only the risky escape channel of the Kerch peninsula opposite the Crimea.

Once Rostov is taken or encircled the Russians could begin a huge annihilation fight as they did with the 22 German divisions trapped at Stalingrad.

Salsk had been stubbornly defended. It was a major goal of the Russian drive into the Caucasus from Stalingrad and its capture marked a 215 mile advance from the Volga citadel, which today entered its 152d day of siege.

Gain All Along Southern Front.

The Russians also reported gains extending from Salsk 200 miles south to the Caucasian mountains.

On the lower Caucasian railway, soviet troops were reported about 42 miles from Armavir, rail gateway to the Maikop oil fields to the west.

The Russians also announced the capture of Mikoyan-Shakhar, deep in the Caucasus mountains northwest of Mount Elborus, highest peak in the range.

It was the first intimation that the Germans had advanced so far up the north slopes of the Caucasus mountains.

No further gains were reported in the sector south of Voronezh, on the westward push toward Kharkov and Kursk, but the Russians said they wiped out more than 700 axis troops 90 miles east of Valuiki, an advance point in the Kharkov drive. The communique said 1,800 prisoners were taken in this action.

On the central front southwest of Veliki Luki the Russians said they had captured nine populated places.

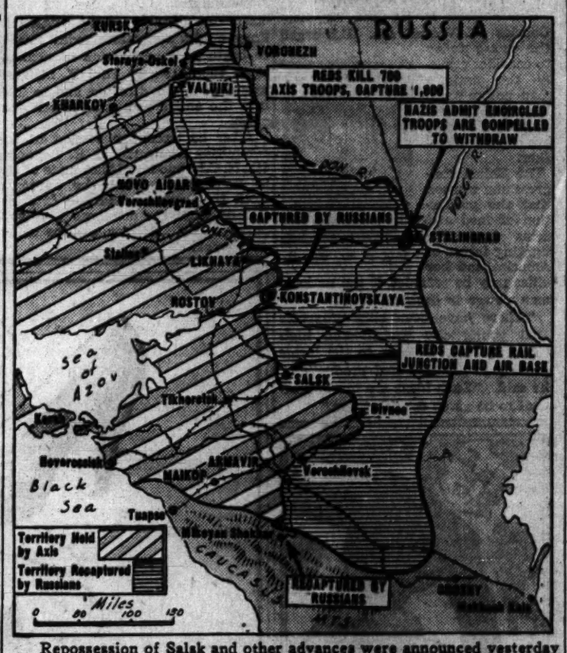
CUT STALINGRAD LINE.

The Russians yesterday reported they had shattered the western defense wall of the German death trap before Stalingrad, and Berlin admitted the breakthru in these words: "Despite a heroic defense, the [German] defenders of Stalingrad could not prevent the enemy from breaking in from the west, which compelled the withdrawal of our own forces by several kilometers."

The Germans also admitted a retreat in the east Caucasus. They said Nazi troops "detached themselves from the enemy according to plan in the course of mobile fighting."

Russians Recapture Strategic City

(Story in adjoining column.)



Repossession of Salsk and other advances were announced yesterday by the Russians in summary of fighting in the Caucasus and Stalingrad sectors.

YANKEE PLANES POUND 350 MILES OF NAZIS' COAST

Allies Raid from Ghent to Cherbourg.

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP).—Swarms of British, American, and allied planes carried out extensive, large scale offensive sweeps over northern France and Belgium today in a followup to the ninth night bomber attack this month on Hitler's Ruhr valley arsenal.

The air ministry said seven German fighters were destroyed and that four allied bombers and six fighters were lost in the daylight operations that extended over 350 miles of German-occupied coastal territory from Ghent [Belgium] to the Cherbourg peninsula of France.

Nazi Airdrome Attacked.

Oil installations at Terneuzen, near Ghent, were bombed, as were German airfields at Maupertus, Abbeville, St. Omer, and on the Cherbourg peninsula. "Many squadrons," which included dominion, American and British fighters, covered the bombers.

The Maupertus air field is one of the principal bases for the Focke-Wulf 190s the Germans have been using in day raids on England.

The sweeps were spearheaded by American fighter pilots on a "large scale," indicating big numbers of fighters made the foray in addition to bombers.

Earlier coastal command planes sighted two enemy ships off Stavanger, Norway, and scored a torpedo hit on one.

German Radio Station Cut Off.

German radio transmitters at Berlin, Koenigsberg, Leipzig, Stuttgart, and Luxemburg went off the air tonight. This usually is an indication that raiders are over the area where broadcasts are silenced.

German planes struck back at England tonight, dropping bombs near two southwest coastal towns.

890 Reported Killed in Berlin.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 22 (AP).—Information reaching diplomatic sources in Stockholm tonight said it was estimated that the R. A. F. killed 890 Germans in last week-end's raids on Berlin. Officially, the Germans have admitted only 110 dead, the capital's biggest loss of the war.

ENLISTMENT RESUMED FOR SEAMEN; BOYS 17 RUSH TO BE FLYERS

Enrollment of apprentice seamen for training in merchant marine service was resumed yesterday at the United States maritime recruiting office, 53 West Jackson boulevard, after having been stopped Dec. 5 by the presidential ban on all enlistments.

Lt. Robert T. Sexton, director of the 6th region, said the local office had a waiting list of several hundred applicants. They must be 18 thru 35 years old, and have American birth certificates. The average wage of a merchant seaman, after approximately three months' training, is $200 to $300 a month. Lt. Sexton said men with documentary evidence of at least 14 months at sea on vessels of more than 500 tons may apply for admission to the officers' candidate school at New London, Conn.

More than 50 high school pupils rushed to the naval aviation cadet selection board, 141 West Jackson boulevard, as the navy opened pilot training enlistments to 17 year olds.

HUNGARIAN ARMY MAULED BY REDS, PREMIER ADMITS

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP).—Hungarian troops, which have borne the brunt of the Russian assault south of Voronezh, were admitted by Premier Nicholas Kallay of Hungary today to have suffered "heavy casualties" in fighting off "tremendous" soviet attacks.

The premier's address to the Hungarian government on the general war situation, broadcast by Berlin, included a threat of severe measures against persons guilty of disseminating false news.

Air Liner from Chile Lost on Peru Coast South of Lima

LIMA, Peru, Jan. 22 (AP).—An international air passenger liner scheduled to arrive here before dusk tonight from Santiago, Chile, is lost somewhere along the coast between Lima and Ocona, 400 miles to the south, Pan American Grace Airways announced. The plane has not been reported since 3 p. m., when it flew over Ocona, officials said.

CITE 10 IN ARMY FOR HEROISM IN PACIFIC, AFRICA

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22 (AP).—The war department announced today the award of the distinguished service cross to nine officers and one enlisted man for extraordinary heroism in action in the southwest Pacific and North African campaigns. Among them were:

Lt. Col. Merle H. Howe, Grand Rapids, Mich., for heroism near Buna, New Guinea, on Dec. 5.

1st Lt. Charles L. Davis, Bloomington, Ind., for rescuing wounded near Djedida, Tunisia, Nov. 29.

1st Lt. John E. Harbert, Pontiac, Mich., for heroism near Cape Sudest, New Guinea, Nov. 16.

2d Lt. Paul R. Lutjens, Big Rapids, Mich., for leading an attack near Buna, New Guinea, Dec. 5, when he was a first sergeant.

DIES OF STEAM BURNS.

James Wilson, 50 years old, of Coal City, Grundy county, died yesterday in Ingalls Memorial hospital, Harvey, of burns suffered Dec. 10 when he was using steam to thaw out a sand pile in the yards of the Material Service corporation in Thornton.

U-BOATS DAMPEN OPTIMISM OVER GAINS BY ALLIES

Fear Submarines Menace Victory Over Axis.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 22.—British jubilation over Russia's successes, described as far beyond the most optimistic expectations, and the 8th army's drive in North Africa has been checked by the growing opinion that the U-boat menace is the most serious threat against an allied victory.

The press is increasing its clamor for facts. Secrecy is condemned as creating an unwarranted complacency on one hand and as detrimental to morale, because of exaggerations.

Fear Victories May Be Nullified.

But the emphasis in Washington, D. C., and London on the seriousness of the battle of the Atlantic has led many to believe every victory on land and in the air might be nullified by sea losses.

Experts admit the situation is more desperate than even in 1917 and that convoys with their present escorts no longer are an adequate answer, as the U-boats find them and in mass attacks are able to harass them across the ocean. This much was officially admitted when it was announced that one convoy reaching here recently was attacked 35 times in 4 days and suffered damage, altho two U-boats were sunk.

Convoy Difficulties Increase.

Radio location, underwater listening devices, air reconnaisance, and wireless all make it increasingly difficult for convoys to escape submarines. The fact that submarines are fighting, not only in packs, but in echelons makes it difficult for the escort vessels. Because of their high surface speed, submarines also can intercept or overtake convoys.

So far no one has given the answer to the submarine menace, except to suggest higher ship speeds or more aircraft cover to prevent submarines from sighting convoys in the daytime. It is said that it would be an accident if the convoys were spotted at night.

Fifty Base Hospital 13 Veterans Attend Reunion

Fifty members of Base Hospital 13, an organization of veterans of the last war, met last night for their 25th annual reunion in the Medinah club of Chicago, 505 North Michigan avenue. The members, doctors attached to the Presbyterian hospital during the first World war, orderlies who served together in France, clerks and hospital assistants, gathered to hear speeches from two of the members who are now attached to the army medical corps at Camp Robinson, Ark. Dr. Benjamin Camp, who served with the veterans, is now a regimental surgeon stationed in North Africa.

FLYNN'S PAVING ALIBI BRANDED FALSE IN SENATE

Knew City Supplied Blocks, Says Dewey Ex-Aid.

today as an array of witnesses appeared either to accuse or defend his qualifications for the responsible assignment of a wartime diplomat.

Kern preceded Herlands and testified that Flynn's courtyard was paved with city equipment and labor "in the presence and with the advice of Mr. and Mrs. Flynn." He added that there could be no doubt that Flynn knew city employés were doing the job.

"Flynn's theory of this case," Kern said, "seems to be this:

"He looked out the window and saw those nice men laying Belgian paving blocks in his yard and turned to his wife and said: 'There must be a Santa Claus after all. Who do you suppose could have done that?'"

Guest at White House.

Kern dragged the White House into the proceedings when he asserted a client of Flynn's law firm, Serge Rubinstein, whom he described as "an alien illegally in the United States under a fraudulent passport," had been invited to and entertained at the White House at least twice.

Kern declared that Rubenstein, a Russian, has admitted in court that he faked his nationality and claimed to be the illegitimate son of a Portuguese woman in order to get a

Portuguese passport into the United States. The justice and state departments have investigated Rubinstein, said Kern, adding that any one else would have been sent to jail, but "as a client of Goldwater & Flynn he seems to be completely safe."

In connection with some of Rubinstein's litigation, Kern also accused the law firm of Goldwater & Flynn of "conspiracy to defraud the British government out of $1,300,000." He added that Rubinstein, whose business had holdings in Japan, had contributed 50,000 yen to Japanese army and navy relief for families of Japs killed in the war with China. This was in late 1940 or early 1941, he said.

Ousted by La Guardia.

Kern, tall, youthful New York lawyer, described his investigation, which he said he undertook when he believed La Guardia failed to take action. La Guardia later dismissed Kern.

"There is no question but that serious violations of the civil service regulations were involved in this case as well as larceny," declared Kern.

"The fact that the grand jury found that crime had been committed but that no one had committed it doesn't change the fact that 8,000 city-owned blocks remain on Mr. Flynn's estate," he continued.

Earlier, Samuel J. Foley, district attorney of Bronx county and close friend of Flynn, defended his conduct of a grand jury investigation into the scandal in which the jury decided to return no indictments.

Under persistent, sharp interrogation by Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.], Foley admitted the jury had found a crime had been committed.

"But they didn't indict anybody," said Foley firmly.

Earlier, Assistant Secretary of State Adolf A. Berle Jr., one of the Roosevelt brain trusters, appeared to deny reports that he had denounced Flynn's conduct in the office of chamberlain of New York City, which post Berle later held.

He admitted under questioning by Vandenberg, however, that a report by the New York Bar association showing that Flynn had invested $973,000 in trust funds within three months in guaranteed mortgages and certificates of the State Title and Trust company, which later were almost completely in default, indicated that this was a large amount to be purchased within such a short period.

The last witness of the day was Daniel A. Daly, foreman of the Bronx grand jury, who denied he received a federal job as a result of the jury's clearance of Flynn. Daly claimed he got his job as an army and navy "expediter" thru civil service and that he never knew Flynn or had any political connections with him. The hearing will continue tomorrow.

NEW DEAL VOTE ALIBI UPSET BY MISSOURI RACE

Republican Wins by a Rising Margin.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—Marion T. Bennett, Missouri's new 28 year old Republican congressman, is e- thing more than the new gentleman from Missouri to the house. He is a flesh and blood refutation, Republican leaders said today, of the New Dealers' claim that there would ave been no Republican landslide Nov. 3 if the invasion of North Africa had come before and not after the election.

Rep. Bennett, who took his seat yesterday, was chosen to represent Missouri's 6th district, in which Springfield is situated, at a special election of Jan. 12, more than two months after the North African invasion began.

Runs Better than Father.

In this election, Bennett received a fraction under 63 per cent of the votes cast. His father, the late Philip A. Bennett, who died here of a heart attack Dec. 7 and whom the new representative succeeds, won by 54 per cent in November. The elder Bennett, the first Republican ever sent to congress from the district, was one of those on the New Deal's purge list. He had served in congress since 1940, but came under attack after opposing war in the days before Pearl Harbor. After his death, the purgers turned their attention to his son.

The new congressman defeated the same opponent as did his father in November, Sam M. Wear of Springfield, whom the younger Bennett described as a New Deal yesman and follower of the Boss Pendergast organization.

Opponent Changes Tactics.

Bennett said today that Wear advocated giving the chief executive anything he asked, even to a fourth term, in the campaign before the November election.

"After he saw the results of that election," Rep. Bennett said, "Wear came out against rationing and excess governmental spending, for political expediency, and said no more about the fourth term."

The campaign was a bitter one. There had been 84,681 votes cast in the November election, when both parties had county tickets to bring out the vote. Special elections, Bennett said, ordinarily are marked by their light vote. But without the county candidates to bring the voters to the polls in droves, 57,944 voters cast ballots in the special election.

The New Dealer received 21,496. Bennett was swept into office with 36,448. He had won by 14,952 votes, as compared to the 7,789 vote victory of his father in November.

NELSON CREATES NEW WPB OFFICE: POWER DIRECTOR

Puts Utilities Expansion on List of 'Must' Tasks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—Another office was added to the patchwork of government agencies today with the creation of a power director within the war production board.

J. A. Krug.

Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, announced that this official will be J. A. Krug, 35 years old, formerly manager of power for the Tennessee Valley authority and recently WPB deputy director of priorities. Krug's public utility experience has been confined to work with government agencies, except for a year and a half as research statistician for the Wisconsin Telephone company.

Gets Wide Jurisdiction.

Nelson said Krug will issue all WPB orders affecting electric, gas, water, and communications utilities. Transferred to his jurisdiction will be the work of four other WPB units which have been dealing with utilities matters, including construction, priorities, and materials limitations.

Creation of the new office brings to 14 the number of government agencies or divisions which are competing for WPB allocations of critical materials for their programs.

Nelson today classed the expansion of public utilities facilities in the list of so-called "must" programs, which already include synthetic rubber, high octane gasoline, ships, and aircraft.

Jeffers Brings Fight to Head.

The struggle among various czars for raw materials and finished parts meted out by WPB came to a head recently when William M. Jeffers, rubber director, took his demands for a top priority on needs for synthetic rubber to the White House. The problem still is under study there.

The 14 units classed by WPB as "claimant agencies," besides the rubber and power offices, are the army, navy, air forces, maritime commission, office of civilian supply, lend-lease, board of economic warfare, national housing agency, office of defense transportation, petroleum administrator, food administrator, and WPB facilities bureau.

Nelson today defended this setup. "The purpose of this arrangement is not to put the programs in competition with each other," he said, "but to fit all of them together into an orderly and integrated construction program which can be successfully carried out in the time which we have available."

HOUSE WARNED ON DISSIPATION OF MAN POWER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—Rep. Charles W. Vursell [R., Ill.] urged the house today to consider gravely the nation's man power problem before the fighting forces are expanded further.

Rep. C. W. Vursell.

The Salem congressman warned that the production of food and arms for the fighting forces of America and her allies may be retarded if the nation's man power is drained.

"There have been silly proposals that young city women and high school children be sent to the farms to help in planting and production," he said. "Such ideas are too impractical to be given consideration."

SENATE GROUP TO QUIZ M'NUTT ON PAY ROLLERS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22 [Special].—A suddenly militant senate military affairs committee today moved to begin an investigation of nominations submitted by Paul V. McNutt, war man power director, and to look into the entire war man power situation.

After an executive session of the committee Chairman R. R. Reynolds [D., N. C.] announced that none of the 30 nominations would be approved until the senators had full information on what the nominees were supposed to do. McNutt will be called next week.

ADD TO PRESSURE FOR QUIZ ON U. S. SUIT AGAINST AP

Second House Resolution Is Introduced.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—The house rules committee will be asked next week to act at once upon a resolution calling for an investigation of the department of justice and the reasons underlying the government's anti-trust suit against the Associated Press. The administration's attack upon the press service involves fundamental concepts of free government, said the proponents, and there must be no delay in a congressional inquiry.

Rep. Paul Shafer [R., Mich.], who introduced the resolution, disclosed that he has conferred with house leaders and several members of the rules committee and all expressed favorable reaction toward his proposal for a thoro inquiry. In less than 24 hours after he asked for the probe, telegrams and telephone calls praising the action were being received at his office.

Harness Asks Special Inquiry.

Meanwhile, it was learned, a similar inquiry into department of justice activities will be sought in the house on Monday. Rep. Forest A. Harness [R., Ind.] said he will introduce a resolution asking for the appointment of a special committee to inquire into the Associated Press suit, widely regarded as an administration attack upon the freedom of the press.

Shafer's measure asks that the probe be conducted by the house judiciary committee. Harness explained that he will ask for appointment of a special committee because it has been the policy of the judiciary committee to avoid going into matters involving pending litigation.

Acts for Speedy Investigation.

The Indiana congressman emphasized that he was casting no reflection on the members of the judiciary committee and said:

"This is a matter of far reaching importance to all Americans. I believe that a special committee which would have no other business except to pursue this inquiry wherever it might lead is the logical way to insure a thoro airing of all questions involved."

Under house rules, both resolutions must go to the rules committee for approval and then must pass the house after debate on the floor before the investigation can be started. Either the rules committee or the house will have to decide whether to place the matter in the hands of the judiciary group or whether a new committee is necessary.

Opposes Any Delay.

In any case, Shafer said, there is no reason for delay in consideration of the proposal for a justice department inquiry.

"The rules committee may have many other matters pending," he asserted. "It cannot have any more important than this one."

His resolution states that the suit against the Associated Press has given rise to fear in the hearts of many Americans that their basic liberties at home are in danger while they are fighting to extend the four freedoms to the rest of the world. He said the suit against the Associated Press was filed only after membership was refused to a publisher friendly to the administration. Members were threatened by government agents and told the administration would take steps against them if they failed to vote the desired membership, he charged.

HELPS PREPARE DEATH CHAIR AT OWN EXECUTION

San Quentin, Cal., Jan. 22 (AP).—Impatient for death, Leslie Gireth helped a guard strap him to the execution chair in San Quentin's gas chamber today and then breathed deeply as the fumes filled the room.

Leslie Gireth.

He died for the murder of his sweetheart, Miss Dorena Hammer, 21 years old. Those who talked with him in his last hours said he believed he would be reunited with her at the moment of his death.

Gireth, 39, a wealthy jeweler in Glendale, Cal., was married and the father of two sons.

Some believe he killed Miss Hammer because he had learned she was planning to marry another. Last July, in a tourist camp they occupied in San Leandro, he fired three bullets into her body as she slept. He placed his photograph beside the bed and arranged a vase of red carnations at her side. Then he surrendered.

"People wouldn't understand," was all he would say of his motive.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 31 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 28 were killed in Chicago where 678 were injured in traffic accidents.

HIDE AND SEEK IN MORGUE TOLD AT FLYNN TRIAL

Flyer Describes 'Game' with Peggy.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 22 (AP).—Capt. Owen Cathcart-Jones, a former royal Canadian air force squadron leader, admitted today at Errol Flynn's trial on charges of statutory rape that he had accompanied Peggy La Rue Satterlee to various places—once to a mortuary, where Peggy played hide-and-seek among the corpses.

Owen Cathcart-Jones.

The dapper flyer, who said he is 42 years old, said on defense cross-examination that Peggy had been a frequent visitor to his Hollywood apartment, alone.

Miss Satterlee, who is 16, is the complaining witness on two of three counts with which the film actor is charged.

Flyer Tells of Chaperons.

The airman, speaking in a broad English accent, admitted accompanying Miss Satterlee to night clubs, vacation spots, and restaurants. He said that when they made out-of-town trips, however, they always were accompanied by her mother, her sister Mickey, or some one else.

"On one occasion didn't you go to a mortuary?" asked Flynn's attorney, Jerry Giesler.

"Yes," said Cathcart-Jones.

"And didn't Peggy play hide-and-seek among the corpses?"

"Yes."

"And wasn't the casket of an elderly woman opened?" Giesler continued.

"Yes."

"And the sheet pulled down from a Filipino who was slashed across the middle?"

"Yes."

Circumstances Untold.

The circumstances of the trip to the mortuary were not brought out.

The witness, who said his night club and other excursions with Miss Satterlee were made in the summer of 1941, was asked by Giesler whether he was married at that time. He said he was not.

The flyer admitted he bought clothes for Peggy and gave her money from time to time. Giesler asked how often he contributed money and the witness said he had done so whenever she was out of funds.

"Did Peggy ever change her clothes or dress in your apartment?"

"No," Cathcart-Jones said.

Denies Intimacies.

"Didn't you lie on a divan with Peggy in your apartment?"

"No."

Miss Satterlee has charged that Flynn was intimate with her aboard his yacht. The other charge of statutory rape involves Betty Hansen, 17.

The prosecution closed its case with today's testimony and the trial was adjourned until Monday. Giesler said Flynn will take the witness stand.

POLICE INVASION OF HOMES O.K.'D BY LA GUARDIA

New York, Jan. 22 [Special].—Mayor Fiorello La Guardia gave complete indorsement today to the rule of the New York police under which they keep patrolmen on duty 24 hours a day in private homes where they have made arrests for gambling, even after the courts have thrown out the charges.

Asked what basis there was in law for the existence of a police regulation which the police have said permits them to remain on raided premises for weeks and months at a time, La Guardia said that it was the duty of the police to prevent a recurrence of crime and that they would stay in houses or apartments "where they believe it is necessary to be" until the owner of the dwelling obtained a court order compelling them to leave.

La Guardia also defended the police in their policy of entering homes without warrants in cases in which gambling is suspected—despite the provisions of both state and federal constitutions protecting homes from invasion by law officers.

Individual form 1040A, the special short form for salaried incomes under $3,000 were made available in room 567 of the courthouse. The longer standard form will be available there next week, Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue, said.

after reading this letter with the following comment, which he stated held true for the shipping situation:

"I think the time has come when we should call a halt and let Bill Smith out on Guadalcanal with a bullet in his muscle know that our government and our people are going to tolerate no effort which will not back him up 100 per cent and make us slightly worthy to call ourselves his fellow citizens."

Hoffman to Ask Inquiry.

Rep. Clare Hoffman [R., Mich.] said tonight that he was introducing a resolution in the house Monday that would instruct the President and officials of the army, navy, and department of justice to take whatever action may be necessary to end all subversive activities "which interfere with the production, fabrication, manufacture, transportation, and delivery to our fighting forces of all things which may be needed by our fighting men."

Hoffman declared that activities of certain labor racketeers and union politicians have been interfering with our preparations for national defense and war production for more than three years. This must be halted, he said.

Hoffman observed that if a few of the marines had been inclined to line up along the decks of the ship, the crew "might have been induced" to unload the vessel, regardless of the day of the week.

Denies Ban on Sunday Work.

New York, Jan. 22 (AP).—Joseph Curran, president of the CIO National Maritime union, said today that there were no union rules which prevented seamen from unloading a ship on Sunday.

His statement came after publication of a story that marines had to unload a merchant ship in Guadalcanal when the crew refused to unload it because it was on a Sunday.

[The Tribune story did not say union rules prevented the seamen from working Sundays. It merely said they refused to work.]

Curran said ships' articles definitely provide for "work at the discretion of the master."

"If there was any truth in this story, we would have heard about it many months ago from marine officials, from the maritime commission and from other government sources," he said.

2 MORE SHIPS SUNK BY SUBMARINES IN AMERICAN WATERS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22.—The navy reported today that two more freighters have been sunk by submarines operating in American waters.

One was a medium size British vessel which was torpedoed late last month off the eastern coast of South America. The other was a Polish freighter which was shelled last month in the Caribbean sea. Three of 41 crewmen were killed aboard the Polish ship. Thirty-two escaped from the British vessel.

The sinkings brought to 600 the number of vessels lost in the western Atlantic area since Pearl Harbor, according to an unofficial tabulation by the Associated Press.

$100,000 PLEDGE OPENS NEGROES' WAR BOND RALLY

More than 1,200 Chicago Negroes gathered in the Parkway ballroom, 45th street and South Park way, last night for a war bond rally banquet. Sales of bonds totaled $303,306.

First bond purchase was made by Robert E. Cole, president of the Metropolitan Funeral System association, who bought $100,000 worth of bonds in his own and the association's behalf.

Maj. C. Udell Turpin, colored army officer, who served in the first World war, and is now a deputy administrator of the treasury department's Illinois war savings staff, was in charge of the rally.

Speakers included Norman C. Collins, head of the Illinois war savings staff; Mrs. Walter Wolf, and other treasury department officials, and representatives of the WAACs and the American Women's Volunteer staff. William Pickens, head of the Negro division of the treasury war savings staff, praised Chicago's Negro population for buying bonds and stamps.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 23, 1943.

AND YE SHALL KNOW THE TRUTH, AND THE TRUTH SHALL MAKE YOU FREE.

REPUBLICAN CITADEL.

The Republican revival began in 1938. The gains continued in 1940. The landslide in the northern states last November showed that the movement is continuing to gain strength. Except in the solid south, the border states, and the thinly populated mountain states, the Republicans now have a clear majority in every section of the land.

The revival began in the middle west and has achieved its most notable results there. Eastern commentators before Nov. 3 miscalculated the strength of the tide and that is a significant fact. Mr. Henning of THE TRIBUNE made no such error. In the election the Republicans gained 6 seats in New England, 7 in the heavily populated middle Atlantic states, including New York and Pennsylvania, 10 seats in the border states, and 5 in the Pacific states. These were imposing evidences of popular support of Republican principles, but were overshadowed by the showing in the middle west.

In the east north central states—the eastern half of the middle west—the Republicans picked up no less than 14 seats and now have 65 as against 20 for the Democrats and 2 for independents. In the western half of the middle west the Republicans gained 2 seats. Today there is not a single Democrat in congress from the midwestern states west of the Mississippi and from that large area only one congressman, an independent, who is not a Republican.

Taking the midwest as a whole, its congressional delegation is made up of 95 Republicans, 20 Democrats and 3 independents. Needless to say, almost all of the 20 Democrats are creatures of corrupt big city machines.

The Republican party was born in the middle west and has always found its strongest leadership here. Lincoln of Illinois was its first successful candidate for President and most of the Republican Presidents elected since then have been midwesterners.

If the party is to continue to gain in strength it will be thru the efforts of this section of the country. The people expect that the representatives and senators from the middle states will assert leadership in both houses and not leave it to men from other sections which are less Republican and less whole-souled in their devotion to our country.

The eastern influence in the Republican party has always been a source of anxiety. That was not because the common people of the east were less patriotic than in the middle west, but because the control of party affairs in the east has all too frequently fallen into the hands of powerful financial interests and has been used by them to promote money-making ambitions at home and social ambitions abroad.

That has been a long standing menace to Republican progress, evident in greater or less degree ever since the Civil war. Today this malign force goes by the name of Willkieism. The word recalls such unpleasant phenomena as Lorimerism. The Republicans of Illinois succeeded in ridding their party of that blight in a notable series of campaigns. The Republicans sent by the middle west to congress are counted upon to protect their party and their country from the blight of Willkieism. There is no place for a Willkieite in the leadership of a Republican party which hopes to hold its present gains and go on to newer and greater victories.

MARCANTONIO LOSES OUT.

Rep. Vito Marcantonio's record as a sedulous follower of the Communist party line was sufficient to have insured his rejection by the house Democratic caucus when the administration tried to get a place for him on the judiciary committee. It was well understood that the support for Mr. Marcantonio came from "downtown," which is congressional parlance for the White House and its purlieus.

Mr. Marcantonio does not call himself a Democrat and never has, altho it was a Democratic committee vacancy he was to fill. He represents what is known as the American Labor party, an outfit closely affiliated with the Communists, which has its main strength concentrated in Marcantonio's district. Its support saved Gov. Herbert Lehman from defeat in 1938 and it did right well in the last election for Lt. Gov. Charles Poletti, even tho it failed to put him across.

The assignment of Mr. Marcantonio to the judiciary committee could, therefore, be considered the liquidation of a political debt, just as was the commutation of sentence granted the union terrorist, Alexander Hoffman, by Poletti during his 29 day tenure as governor following Lehman's resignation. It might appear that Lehman resigned primarily because he was a little too fastidious to do the dirty work that Poletti took care of as his successor. Hoffman happens to be another Communist sympathizer and pillar of the American Labor party.

The house Democrats, asked to put their indorsement on a deal as unsavory as this, found the job slightly too revolting. If, before the New Deal, such an appointment to a congressional committee concerned with the revision of our laws and the political and civil rights of all citizens, had been suggested it would have been a scandal that rocked the land. But the New Deal's record of manipulating the judiciary, distorting and disregarding the law, and clipping down the liberties of Americans has dulled the sensibilities of citizens in congress and out.

The belief that the law stood above all those bound by it and even all those administering it was severely jolted by Mr. Roosevelt's court packing proposal. Since then we have seen a succession of straight party appointments to the Supreme court. The standard of ethics and of legal learning in the federal District courts has been progressively debased by the appointment of such political hacks as Boss Hague's man, Judge Meaney. And the function of the constituted courts has become more and more restricted by the spread of administrative law—a law that is whatever the New Deal burocrats say it is.

The conscience even of Mr. Roosevelt's own party can be degraded only so far. Mr. Marcantonio didn't get the appointment.

GRUDGING CONCESSION.

Joe Weiner, the Union Square farmer who is in charge of farm machinery allocations for the war production board, has lifted his sights a trifle. Mr. Weiner has increased the steel quota for the manufacture of agricultural machinery during the first quarter of the year by 35 per cent. The order was issued the same day that THE TRIBUNE had called attention to the fallacy of asking farmers to achieve record production when only 23 per cent as much new machinery as was manufactured in 1940 is to be placed on the market.

A 35 per cent increase sounds like a good deal. In fact, it is negligible. It means that American farmers, who, under the previous order, were to be allowed to buy only 23 per cent of 1940 production of machinery, now will be granted 31 per cent—during the first three months of the year. There is no assurance that the 8 per cent increase is to be maintained thru the remaining three quarters. Meanwhile export quotas of farm machinery under land-lease remain at levels fixed as high as 118 per cent of 1940 shipments.

It is unnecessary to labor the point that Mr. Weiner's concession is grudging and insufficient. If, as has been said often enough, food will win the war, this is a backhanded way to go about the job, particularly when we are taking on the responsibility of feeding such lands as we may occupy, in addition to lend-lease recipients. It is unlikely that we can succeed in maintaining last year's crop levels, let alone increasing them, without substantial additions to the machinery now on farms.

It must be remembered that thru the depletion of the farm labor supply caused by unwise application of the draft and by the superior attraction of factory wages, the farmer is increasingly thrown upon mechanical helpers, which must supply the loss of farm hands. Mr. Weiner is risking a letdown in farm production when he assumes that machinery at present on the farms is going to stand up under the increased demands placed upon it. A shortage of replacement parts, as well as of skilled mechanics to effect repairs, could easily disrupt Mr. Weiner's plans.

But none of these possibilities seems to disturb him. That is the typical burocrat for you. All he is intended to raise is hell with the rest of the country.

LABOR BOARD DEFEAT.

The Electrical Workers' union accused the Indiana and Michigan Electric company of unfair labor practices. The company in its reply charged the union with dynamiting and other acts of violence. The national labor relations board in hearing the case refused to admit evidence of union violence, saying that even if true it was immaterial. The United States Circuit court decided that the evidence should have been heard and the United States Supreme court has just affirmed that judgment.

The court divided, 5 to 3. The majority took the position that the labor board's findings of fact have "a great degree of finality," but added that the courts in reviewing the work of the board may determine for themselves whether either side was deprived of the right to present evidence material to the issue.

That was a blow and a rather severe one to the New Dealers. They have always regarded administrative tribunals like the labor board as instruments of coercion by which the economy of the nation was to be regimented. The boards were to be prosecutor, judge, jury, and executioner. Every effort was made to deny the citizen an appeal from the New Deal's boards and commissions to the courts or, perhaps more accurately, to make it extremely difficult to get anywhere on appeal. To some extent, and probably to a considerable extent, the latest decision of the Supreme court will serve as a check on administrative tyranny.

Much more is needed, however, before the evil has been eradicated. So far as the Wagner act is concerned, it should be amended to make abundantly clear the proposition that a union which engages in violence is not entitled to recognition as a union under the law. A union which goes in for dynamiting is engaged in a criminal conspiracy. Certainly the laws of the land should not make it easy for such a union to force unwilling employés into its ranks.

THE HIGH COST OF RED TAPE.

[Philadelphia Inquirer.]

The senate committee which has been delving into the subject of government quiz tests for tired business men has turned up an instructive illustration of the high cost of red tape.

A Washington, District of Columbia, bank, wishing to give merited pay increases totaling $300 a year to two clerks, found that necessary advice for filling out the required questionnaires for the war labor board would involve at least $300 additional for lawyers' fees.

These raises were coming to the employés, war or no war. The application forms were in five parts, on white, pink, green, orange, and yellow sheets. They made the bank president see red. Instruction for filling out the 10 sheets in all took up three extra pages.

There was then no assurance that after going to all this expense and trouble the applications would be granted. At the rate of $150 for each pay raise petition for an employé, how much would it cost a big business desiring to reward hundreds of workers with varying amounts of added compensation?

But WLB isn't the only red tape addict in Washington. WPB has evolved a priority assistance report which, with its required multiplications for each applicant, stretches out to 128 lineal feet of red tape. Since the report must be made quarterly, the burdened business man has to tackle a total of 512 feet of paper work in the course of the year. The items to be reported amount to 194,356, and this is only one of the countless questionnaires which keep him busy by day and awake at night.

In an unguarded moment President Roosevelt told his press conference that no columnist could write interestingly and truthfully three times a week. We would hate to be in the President's shoes when Mrs. Roosevelt asks him just what he meant by that remark.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

MR. PEPYS BUCKLES DOWN.

23d Jan.—In spite of snowfall and bitter cold, visited two playhouses this week, sitting thru the shows with my galoshes on because finding such articles when people are crowding the aisles is difficult. Saw a war play called "The Eve of St. Mark," and a rich merriment called "Lady in the Dark," and am now up to date on such matters and can hold my own in gossip among the wits of the town. Marveled at Gertrude Lawrence, who may be the most expert and versatile singing and dancing actress since Nell Gwynn.

Enjoyed the extreme cold because the air was dry, the sun shone, and there was little wind, and believe such spells of rigorous weather helped to invigorate the settlers in this region and to give Chicago its abounding energy. Northern civilizations begin to decay, I think, when their people dream of moving southward to find soft and lazy surroundings. Grieved for my little dog, however, which when taken out tried to walk without letting her paws touch the ground for fear of freezing.

Having eaten a muskrat recently, in the interest of science and the food supply, shall proceed to eat another untouchable creature, the fish called carp. A few of my club fellows have formed a pool for the purchase of a pair of fine carp, and we have selected next Tuesday as the date of our gathering as carp-testers. We will have the fish boiled in water flavored with herbs and wine, and are hoping for the best.

On looking in an old French diary, which gives every day a saint's name, discovered that the date we have chosen for carp eating marks the feast of St. Polycarp, a highly esteemed and very ancient father of the church. Truly, a remarkable coincidence.

HALE FELLOW ALL WET.

Sing ho! for the rains and the midwinter slush;
A hardy outdoorsman am I!
I'm robust and virile, a tough kind of fella
Who never wears rubbers or carries umbrella;
Who cares if my feet are not dry?
Ho, ho! My resistance is high!

Sing ho! for a thaw and the ankle-deep flood;
My soggy shoes burble and squish!
I walk in a downpour with head proudly bare;
My darling protests, but I say I don't care,
For this kind of weather's my dish,
I'm healthy as one could well wish!

Sigg ho! for idhaler ad kleedex at hadd,
Say, darlig, it's tibe for by drobs!
This hot bustard bath is too butch for by feet,
Add why are you sbilig so awful dab sweet?
By head's full of stiffles add throbs,
Add by dose, like the brook, dever stobs!

Party Girl Proposes a Footnote.

"Do you mind if I kick off my shoes while we chat?" she asked. "Not at all," I said, "but what an odd habit."

"It's the peasant in me," she confessed. "I have an idea my forefathers all went barefooted and I'm a throwback. I love it, don't you?"

"Heavens, no. I'm the type who would inevitably pick up the thumbtack some one had lost."

"But, darling, you don't know what you're missing," she cried. "To walk barefooted in the grass at night when there's a heavy dew . . . it's as cooling and refreshing as a mint julep in hot weather.

"Every one is too tense nowadays," she went on. "People should learn to relax. Somewhere I read an article to 'pretend you're an old sock.' Well, I just kick off my shoes and rest myself from the ground up.

"It's always been my theory that the famous beauties of bygone days who enjoyed having gay admirers drink champagne from their slippers were simply glad of the opportunity to get their shoes off and wriggle their cramped toes. It's like getting one's second wind.

"Well, I must be going, darling. I hate to rush off, but I have to stop at the lost and found department at the Rockette theater and see whether they located my shoe that some fiend kicked out of sight at the matinée yesterday."

I HAVE A JOB TO DO.

I have a job to do; not some bright game;
No wond'rous duty fabulous and fine.
No cheering follows mention of my name;
I have faint knowledge of the deep design
That underlies this humble task I do.
I have a job. This much, just this, I know:
'Tis mine to do and I will see it thru.
Tho insignificant, I strike my blow.
A feeble blow, a child could do as much;
Not like the glory that I saw in dreams,
No glory this. No misty, magic touch
Can change it from the hateful task it seems.
I have a job, a dismal job. And when
It shall be done, God, keep such jobs from men!

Are the Winters Getting Warmer?

These "unprecedented" winters in Chicago are annoying. They come so often, and each one is considered a record-breaker. The especially cold ones were:

1848-'49, 1854-'55, 1856-'57, 1867-'68, 1870-'71, 1874-'75, 1876-'77, 1882-'83, 1892-'93, 1898-'99 [below zero continuously from Feb. 2 to Feb. 23], 1911-'12 [below zero continuously from Dec. 25 to Jan. 11], 1918-'19, 1928-'29 [24 zero days], 1935-'36 [36 zero days], and possibly this one.

WHEN BOBBY SAYS "IT HURTS"—PAY ATTENTION.

MOST children withstand pain unusually well. They have not had an opportunity to become hypochondriacs and the zest for happiness is ever present, even under severe handicaps.

This explains why many tots endure an earache or an attack of tonsilitis for several hours before complaining. The child may be so busy with his work and play that he has no time to bother with minor signs of illness.

Thus we can understand why it is important to instruct youngsters to tell mother should any part of the body hurt. This may be accomplished without arousing self-consciousness. In this fashion, many an ear infection has been detected early enough to release an abscess behind the drum.

The distress of colic is usually so unbearable and the victim is so out of sorts that the protest is loud and long. Fortunately, with better knowledge of feeding, these attacks are now less frequent. But, as the youngster grows older, acute indigestion may give rise to real concern. Heartburn can come from too much food or from an improperly balanced meal.

Careful attention should always be paid to discomfort in the stomach region as this may be the first indication of appendicitis. While nausea and vomiting may appear, many a child will exhibit no fever or other significant symptom.

Another fairly common difficulty is pus within the kidney or the bladder. Girls are more likely to be afflicted than boys. A high temperature may point to the nature of the trouble and the urine may be found to be loaded with bacteria. Distress may be so great that sedatives will be required.

Physicians realize how often rheumatism is overlooked. A slightly swollen joint may escape observation. As a rule, however, the patient will limp or wince and the source may then be determined.

Osteomyelitis [an abscess near the growing portion within a bone] can be handled far better if prompt recognition is possible. Following an infection, such as tonsilitis, germs may find their way to the hollow space of a long bone. There they may flourish and establish inflammation. In consequence, the "gathering" exerts pressure in its efforts to escape. Excruciating pain is nearly always an accompaniment. Unless good management is instituted, a crippling deformity may ensue.

Whimpering may be the result of ill fitting clothing. Look for shoes that cramp or pins that stick. I well recall a sturdy year old babe who was on the squirm most of the time. Even casual observation showed that something was annoying him. Sure enough, he was wearing what grandmother insisted upon—a firm binder—which had been wound round and round his body. The article in question was scratchy and harsh and it had been adjusted so snugly that he was unable to use his abdomen in breathing. The removal of this check-rein brought forth many smiles.

Test Your Horse Sense By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 22.

1. A daguerreotype should make you think of which field below?
   Printing Photography Warfare Music.
2. The technical medical name for a birthmark is which of these?
   Nevus Femur Keloid Neurone.
3. Which one of these commercial products carries a watermark?
   Soap Paper Coffee Soup.
4. Which one of these words is inappropriate in this general grouping?
   Portion Potion Helping Serving.
5. The present world champions in baseball belong to which city?
   Boston Cincinnati Detroit St. Louis.
6. Here is a clever method of finding the square of a number ending in 5 without the use of a pencil. To square 5 for example take the number in front of the 5 and multiply it by the next higher number in the sequence. This means take the 2 and multiply it by 3, which gives 6. Then square the 5 and place the result at the right of the 6. Thus you have 625. To square 35 multiply the 3 by the next higher number, which is 4. This gives you 12. Attach the square of 5 and you have 1,225. You deserve one point for each correct answer to the following, but don't use pen or pencil.
   [a] 55x55 equals———— [d] 105x105 equals————
   [b] 65x65 equals———— [e] 505x505 equals————
   [c] 95x95 equals————

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

WHERE TO FIND MAN POWER.

Winchester, Ill., Jan. 19.—Senators Byrd and Tydings, after careful surveys of how our government affairs were being handled, have said that about 1,000,000 employés could be dispensed with and we would have more efficient government and prosecution of the war, with a saving of about two billion dollars a year to the taxpayers.

Our man power czar, Mr. McNutt, claims he is greatly concerned over obtaining sufficient man power to prosecute the war.

As a dirt farmer and taxpayer, I would like to ask a few questions. Why not discontinue about 239,000 of the 240,000 on the agricultural department political pay roll, and put them in the army or to producing food, instead of retarding food production as at present?

Why not discontinue the 35,000 ballyhoo and publicity boys who burn up the airways in telling the people the wonders of the New Deal, the burocrats, and burocratic government; put them to work producing something besides wind, and thereby save another $90,000,000 a year?

Why not turn out the young army on the FSA pay roll, who are great at promoting communistic policies and politics, but useless for winning the war?

Mr. McNutt does not want to look for man power where Senators Byrd and Tydings told him he could find it. The political pets and slackers must be protected in drawing their salaries, while farm boys who are desperately needed to produce food are drafted for the army.

PROTECTING AMERICAN SUCKERS.

New York, Jan. 14.—A few days ago Prof. Pietro Fedele of Rome, former Italian minister of public instruction, died. Altho a Fascist, Prof. Fedele did one very useful thing: He was the compiler of the "Elenco Ufficiale della Nobilta' Italiana," which records all of the authentic titles of nobility that are recognized by the king of Italy and the Italian government.

Fedele's work made it impossible for Italian adventurers to go abroad with high sounding titles and victimize unsuspecting persons, or circulate in society with visiting cards embossed with crowns and coronets.

Some of the Italian adventurers whose names appear frequently in the society columns of American newspapers will have no love for what Fedele did, but many a father whose debutante daughter was being courted by fake counts or barons has owed much to Prof. Fedele for making it possible to unmask one of those vultures. LUIGI CRISCUOLO.

PROBABLY DOESN'T LIKE THE WEATHER MAN.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—I fail to see why weather forecasts need be restricted in any way. "Cold waves" promised for days never arrive; heavy snowstorms appear unheralded, and "light rains" predicted by the weather bureau turn out to be drenching downpours. So why not remove all the restrictions and give these false prophets a free hand? Far from aiding and giving comfort to the enemy, such a step would confuse the axis and shorten the war. H. J. W.

HE WONDERS.

Aberdeen, S. D., Jan. 13.—Reading Lt. Whittaker's account of the loss of the Flying Fortress which carried the Rickenbacker party, I am wondering: [1] whether it is a regular practice in our air forces to begin flights with delicate navigation instruments lying so that take-off accidents may cause them to "shoot across the table and bang against the side of the plane"; [2] whether, in case of such an occurrence it is common practice on the part of navigators to "look at" the instrument, decide that "it appears to be all right," and so choose to risk the plane, crew, and the mission, rather than bother to turn in an almost certainly damaged octant and draw a replacement [which was most certainly available there at Hickam field].

If such inexcusable performance is such a commonplace that it could be witnessed without correction and related without comment by the co-pilot whose plane was thereby lost, then there is something wrong somewhere in our training and no amount of hallelujahing and getting of religion in rubber boats can compensate for it. Tojo is the party we want to see taking to his rubber boat and maybe see the light while so engaged.

J. G. LEIBOLD.

OF COURSE NOT.

Chrisman, Ill., Jan. 14.—And so the farmers are selling the hogs to the black markets, are keeping them for sows, and are keeping them to put on more weight. Whatever it is it won't be that the farmer was robbed of his hired help and machinery. DIRT FARMER.

VICTORY TAX AND LAME DUCKS.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—The victory tax of 5 per cent on wages above $12 will cause no undue hardships, but added to all other taxes and those to follow, it makes a tidy sum.

It will require the full 5 per cent salary tax of more than 100 workers for 52 weeks with an average earning of $30 a week to pay the salary alone of one lame duck at $10,000 a year, and perhaps 200 in all to supply his office entourage.

If the mothers and fathers of the kiddies who give up 10 cents a week for war stamps would pause to consider that it takes the savings of about 2,000 boys and girls contributing 10 cents weekly for 52 weeks to pay the salary of just one of these lame ducks, to say nothing of the thousands of similar useless jobs in the District of Columbia, perhaps the movement among taxpayers would gain sufficient momentum to force a little of the Yankee thrift down the gullets of the burocrats. SILVER PAY FOR SILVER SENATORS.

Evanston, Ill., Jan. 18.—Why not put to use the $22,000,000,000 in gold and the 100,000 tons of silver that are now languishing in Fort Knox and West Point. Pay the salaries of all the members of congress and the administration forces in Washington from this same hoard of gold and silver, using the same price basis they imposed upon the people—the silver state members of congress to be paid in silver. Two Chicago Ensigns Figure in Betrothal Announcements

BY JUDITH CASS.

TWO Chicago ensigns soon will join the ranks of benedicts, according to announcements being made today. Close friends of Miss Fay Horton and Ensign Calvin Parker Sawyier, U. S. N. R., have known of their engagement for several months, but the first formal announcement is being made today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace B. Horton of East 56th street.

At the same time Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Taylor of Rye, N. Y., are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Granville, to Ensign George Henry Robertson Ross, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. G. Ross of Highland Park.

Ensign Sawyier, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert L. Sawyier of Chalmers place, is stationed at present in Washington, D. C., but he hopes to obtain leave so that he and his fiancée may be married on April 3 in her parents' home.

Miss Horton Is a Student at University of Chicago.

Miss Horton is a student at the University of Chicago, from which Ensign Sawyier received his bachelor's and master's degrees. She is a sister of Mrs. Winston Elting, whose navy lieutenant husband is stationed at Great Lakes, and of Arthur and John Horton.

Miss Taylor attended the Rye Country Day school and Ashley hall at Charleston, S. C., and made her debut at the Westchester cotillion in 1939. She also attended the Grand Central School of Art in New York.

Ensign Ross, who is known as "Barney," was graduated from the Lake Forest academy and from Princeton university, class of 1941. He was a member of the Charter and Triangle clubs. After receiving his commission at Columbia last October he trained for a torpedo boat assignment and a few days ago sailed for parts unknown.

Lt. Wood Weds Tonight at His Air Force Post.

Proof that Uncle Sam is doing all he can to coöperate with Cupid these busy war days comes from Greenville, S. C., where Miss Peggy Beattie and Lt. Robert MacPherson Wood are being married tonight. It will be an army air force wedding, with Capt. Arthur MacDougall Wood of that branch of the service as his brother's best man and fellow flyers from Lt. Wood's squadron as ushers. The squadron's commandant has canceled all night flying for his section tonight to insure the ushers' presence.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Arthur Wood of Highland Park have gone to Greenville for their younger son's wedding, which will take place at 8 o'clock in Christ Episcopal church. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Marshall Beattie, will give a small reception later in their home. After a wedding trip Lt. Wood and his bride will be at home in Greenville while he serves as instructor at a nearby air field.

Sales for Bond Concert Total Nearly 2 Million.

The committee for next Wednesday's bond concert in Orchestra hall justifiably is patting itself on the back for selling out the house in five days and piling up a total of nearly 2 million dollars in bond sales, which constitute admission. The program will be given by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Hans Lange conducting, with Gregor Piatigorsky and Nathan Milstein as soloists. The sponsors expect to top the 2 million mark, as many of the purchasers are turning back their tickets for resale.

Among those planning dinner parties before the gala concert are Mrs. Walter R. Kirk, chairman, and Mr. Kirk; Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Cummings, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Wolf. The Tavern is among the downtown clubs keeping open that night for dinner parties.

There will be no solicitations made at the concert. Even the free programs have been donated, as have the services of the artists performing. War bonds will be on sale the night of the concert from booths in the lobby.

Members of the Renaissance society of the University of Chicago will hear a talk by Ulrich Middeldorf at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the galleries at 1012 East 59th street where an exhibit, "Self-Portraits Thru the Ages," is now on view. Tea will be served. The exhibit is a survey in photographic reproduction of self-portraits from 2650 B. C. thru Picasso.

Gen. and Mrs. Charles G. Dawes will not be entertaining tomorrow on their 54th wedding anniversary. Instead they will spend the day quietly in Evanston.

Virginia Cashel to Be Bride Today; Other Wedding News

Only members of the families and a few close friends will be present in the Lady chapel of St. Luke's church, Evanston, at 4:30 o'clock today for the wedding of Miss Virginia Dorothy Cashel and Clifford George Groh. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Raymond Cashel, will give a family dinner later at the Orrington hotel. Mrs. Albert Kempfert will be her sister's matron of honor, and Forrest Voss will serve as best man. After a month's trip to New York and Miami Beach, Mr. Groh will return to China, where he is a captain with the Chinese National Air Ways and where he served as the youngest member of the former American volunteer group, known as the "Flying Tigers." He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George V. Groh of Wilmette.

Miss Lois Jean Heicher, daughter of the George J. Heichers of Fargo avenue, and John V. Tinen Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Tinen of Greenleaf avenue, will be married at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of St. Paul's church, with a small reception following at the Heicher home. Mr. Tinen, a senior at Northwestern university, and his bride will live on Sheridan road. He has enlisted in the army signal corps.

The former Miss Felicie Charlotte Bevernick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander W. Bevernick of Wilmette, was married to Ensign Woody Butler Hilburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Woody B. Hilburn of Bladenboro, N. C., on Jan. 4 in the Memorial chapel at the Norfolk, Va., naval base. Porozoff, former port commissioner at Shanghai, and his wife are believed to be prisoners of the Japanese government. Mr. Porozoff and his bride are at home on the near north side after a trip to St. Louis, Mo.

Miss Lois Nash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Currier of Yankton, S. D., and Anthony Stuedeman were married on Jan. 9 in Thorndike Hilton chapel of the University of Chicago. Pvt. Jernigan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jernigan of Batesville, Ark., was graduated from the University of Arkansas.

Educators Tell Fear for Future of Liberal Arts

The threatened eclipse of liberal education for purely technological training, whether from necessity under the stress of war or from free choice, was deplored, in varying degrees, by educators speaking yesterday at the Chicago College club on the second day of an alumnae college session. The college presidents and professors were agreed that technical knowledge, without the leavening of liberal education in the humanities, would not produce the enlightened and desirable post-war world toward which the hopes of men aspire.

A three day conference ending tomorrow, the alumnae college was arranged for the study of war and post-war issues in relation to the American liberal arts college.

Declaring war to be a challenge to the institutions of higher learning, Constance Warren, president of Sarah Lawrence college, asserted, "The war is teaching us that we cannot afford to waste a college education on those who are indifferent to it, and it is teaching us also that we no longer can deny 50 per cent of our ablest young people a college education."

"Before making wholesale demands upon colleges to release students into wholly vocational channels, a regional survey of the needs and people available to meet them on the different levels of age and ability should be made," she said.

Dr. Helen Dalton Bragdon, president of Lake Erie college, said the issues which pioneers in the education of women faced 100 years ago are "back with us today," tho in different guises.

"The crux of the matter in 1943 is, of course, the value of liberal arts education in war time," Dr. Bragdon said, "and whether the effort of maintaining the liberal arts for women is justifiable. Up to a year or two ago we were emphasizing, with public approval, the necessity for student acquisition of wide fields of knowledge, of ideals and attitudes and of tools of learning. Now we realize more vividly than ever how much knowledge is needed and over what wide fields the knowledge is spread for an understanding of the post-war world and its problems. We in the colleges know that we wish to promote full, intelligent and constructive discussion. We know that when we speak of ideals and attitudes we include in the core of these respect for human dignity and human personality and resources for the life of the spirit. To my mind, to help students become correctly informed, to analyze, interpret and evaluate, is one of the greatest tasks of the colleges at the present time."

Other speakers were Cecil Smith, assistant professor and executive secretary of the department of music at the University of Chicago, and drama critic of THE TRIBUNE; Virginia Onderdonk, assistant professor of philosophy at Wellesley college; Joseph Haroutunian, associate professor of systematic theology, at Presbyterian [formerly the McCormick] Theological seminary, and Ralph A. Beals, director of the university libraries at the University of Chicago.

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee—

Three more young Chicago women have been called into active service with the WAAC, thus increasing the needed quota from the Chicago area. One of them, Helene Malecki of 2801 East 83d street, already is in training at Fort Des Moines. Two more who will leave tomorrow to enter training at the same post are Dorothy Mae Kercher, only daughter of retired Fire Department Capt. Anton Kercher and Mrs. Kercher, 8929 South Racine avenue, and Elaine Mulligan, 1316 Albion avenue.

Helene Malecki.

Miss Kercher is a graduate of Calumet High school, a member of the Spectator Players, and president of the Blessed Virgin sodality of St. Killian's church. Miss Mulligan, who as "Miss Chicago" represented this city at the New York world's fair, has been employed as a secretary to an official of the Anaconda Copper company. She has a brother, Robert, in the marines, and another brother, John, will be inducted into the army shortly.

Mrs. Ruth Oehler, 5444 North Winthrop avenue, a war widow, was sworn into the WAAC yesterday with an avowal to carry on the job her husband began. She was among 80 young women who received the oath at the career dinner at Carson Pirie Scott & Co. The speaker was 1st Officer [Capt.] Doris E. Epperson, WAAC director of the 6th service command. Mrs. Oehler's husband was killed in December in New Jersey when a jeep he was driving skidded and overturned. She was a waitress before her induction.

Three women of the Chicago area will be among the 102 members of the WAAC to be commissioned third officers in graduating ceremonies this morning at Fort Des Moines, Iowa. The class is the third to be chosen from the ranks for the eight week officer training course. From this area are Alice Hastings Bradley Davey, 5344 Hyde Park boulevard; Geanne Duman, 1244 North Dearborn street, and Margaret A. Long, Evanston.

An exhibit showing a cross-section of the war work accomplished by south side women will be held today from 1 until 10 o'clock at the Hyde Park Neighborhood club, 1364 East 56th street. Among the women active in arranging the exhibit are Mrs. Elmer Anderson, head of the Red Cross for the south side; Mrs. John Davey, OCD chairman; Mrs. John Lau, chairman of the Hyde Park Neighborhood club, and Mrs. Caroline K. Levy, chairman of the Red Cross unit at the Shoreland hotel, one of the largest groups in that area.

There'll be gala goings-on on Monday, Feb. 1, in the lounge at the Bismarck hotel, sponsored by the AWVS and established for the exclusive use of women officers in the services. A tea-dance and cocktail party will be the order of the day, starting at 5 o'clock, and other features will be a palmist and a variety of door prizes. Mrs. Smith Christopher is chairman of the committee on arrangements, and tickets may be obtained by calling AWVS headquarters, Central 3363.

With new officers of the WAAC, WAVES, and army and navy nurses being assigned to the Chicago area in increasingly large numbers, the lounge—said to be the first of its kind in the country—is busier than ever dispensing hospitality. It is a meeting place for women to freshen up, relax, obtain information, read, play bridge, or spend a few hours between trains.

The lounge was originated by Mrs. James R. Bremner, the space was donated by the Bismarck hotel, and Mrs. Christopher and her staff of hostesses are on duty daily from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m.

Oxfords Boast Wooden Soles, Fleece Lining

BY REA SEEGER.

Functioning under a clever name like "Limber Timbers," the newest war time footgear with soles of wood arrives to add its bit to foot comfort combined with swank, especially if you wear the uniform of an air raid warden or a spotter. These oxfords come in light brown leather only, in a model that laces up smoothly and snugly over the instep, and boasts a fleece lining to assure warmth of a cold winter day or night.

It isn't obligatory to wear a uniform to buy and wear the oxfords, for any active routine or duty depends upon comfortable fit and neatness in footgear. So if you live in the country, dash about without cars or horse and buggy, these are the oxfords for your wardrobe.

The wooden sole is about a half inch thick, featherweight, and has a thin layer of leather attached to the part of the sole that will come in contact with pavement, snow, slush, mud, or rain, so you will not slip. The sole is flexible because it has been divided rather close to the under instep portion. The heels are faced back with a leather patch effect, so that repairs and heel straightening is speedily and neatly achieved.

So far the linings of fleece [for warmth] have been white, but a cheerful red is promised for a later date, the same red as the linings and trim of a Red Cross cape or any of the war time uniforms. Price mark is as easy to take as the snap and smart details of the oxford, and the half inch thickness of the sole assures dry feet.

Snow piled in waist high drifts along the sidewalk, and white tulips, yellow jonquils, and a single spray of white dogwood in a florist's window. . . . The policeman outside the Chicago Opera house, using a hammer to remove the remainder of a glass door shattered by the wind, and saying, "I have wanted to do this all my life." . . . The girl who went into a business house to apply for a job, said, "I don't want to be an executive or anything big in two weeks; I just want to lope along," and was told, "You're just the girl we're looking for. Can you start right now?" . . . The inner courtyard of the Tree studios piled high with snow, a single gnarled tree rising like a flower from its center, and sheets of icicles hanging in stalactite splendor from the slanting, fairyland roofs of the studios. . . . The face of the doorman at a large department store when a career girl, arrayed in mink with a mink hat, came out and hopped into her shining convertible roadster while behind her a runner-up for store president fished a dime from his pocket and clambered on a rickety bus.

Happy Encounter.

President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago met with the committee of the University senate in a social science classroom the other day. While the gentlemen sat there debating mighty matters, the class bells rang and a student charged in. "What class is this?" he demanded, not recognizing Hutchins. "A class in university administration," Hutchins replied blithely. "Well," the boy said, "you certainly need it around here. The sloppy way this place is run! This is supposed to be a class in sociology 204."

For Bargaining Purposes.

Not so long ago a Chicago mother received a telephone call from her son, an army machine gunner stationed on an island in the south Pacific. He asked her to send him 12 sarongs and 25 bottles of 10 cent perfume immediately. "The perfume has to have big pictures of flowers on the bottle and stink horribly," he insisted. The woman hurried downtown and bought 12 strips of flowered percale, one yard by a yard and a half. She then rushed to the dime store. Here she had to find the manager to get details about the fragrance of the perfume and found he didn't approve of the transaction at all. However, she purchased the 25 bottles, all with sprawling pictures of roses, carnations, gardenias, and violets on the outside. "But do you think the scent is strong enough?" she persisted. "Lady," the manager assured her, "this stinks worse than anything in town." When she reached home with her purchases, she found her husband quite upset. He didn't approve of any of it. "But, dear," she soothed him, "if I found out later it was for food, I'd feel terrible if I hadn't sent it."

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

What's On Your Mind?

Unsigned in the morning mail: "One of my not too white collar girls recently wrote a letter for me to THE MERRY TIME COMMISSION."

And, from S. Hyman: "Our firm received a letter from a customer in a North Carolina town saying, 'Your letter stating goods will be sent to us March 15 meats with our approval.'"

Attention, FBI.

From "Aunt Katie": "Call off your bloodhounds while Aunt Katie enlightens you regarding the girls who take a taxicab from the South Water street L. C. each morning. We are perfectly harmless, just a bunch of 'woiking goils' who are following the 'share your cab' plan. We are dropped at our various offices sort of jitney cab style. You see, it is a long walk and most of us would rather spend a dime that way and make it up on our lunch, maybe.

"By the way, could it be that the reader who inquired as to our identity is one of the gents we usually beat to a cab each morning? If so, take a tip and step faster—white collar girls wait for no one 'cause we have places to go these days."

World Affairs Dept.

The girl pages in a local bank petitioned that they be supplied white collars to wear on their maroon uniforms. Permission was granted and they now call themselves the "White Collar Girls."

Boss Lady.

Gertrude Lawrence indulges in no mere play acting in her fascinating portrayal of the psychoanalyzed feminine executive [tangled by her own hyper-efficiency] in "Lady in the Dark." In her offstage life Miss Lawrence is in business. She is an active member of the Cape Cod Canners' association, owns a large cranberry farm, and calls her home there "The Berries." Also Miss Lawrence organized the first mobile library in the United States for service men, gathering some 2,000 books and taking them to a commando camp near her home.

It is to Miss Lawrence, as Liza Elliott, successful editor of a glamor magazine, that the delightfully frank advertising manager addresses his masculine observation:

"You married that desk years ago, Boss Lady, and you're never going to get a divorce. I know your kind. . . . Yep . . . You have magazines instead of babies."

The phrase "Boss Lady" is going to stick like lumps of starch to our white collars for many a long day. The play is so realistic it's just like a day in any office.

Thru the Looking Glass

Lately we've had an amazing number of inquiries from women who want to gain weight. Some of them are simply dissatisfied with the meager silhouette now because it is a difficult frame on which to hang our somewhat skimpy war clothes with any smartness. Others feel they'll be able to work better, to stand strain with more fortitude, if they cushion their nerves with a little more flesh. And not a few want to climb up to the 120 pounds which will permit them to be blood donors.

A physical examination is the best starting point if the underweight status is of long standing. Providing this discloses no organic cause, gaining weight is a fairly simple process.

Curiously enough, exercise is helpful. It's a great normalizer. Correct, regular exercise will tone up the entire system; best of all, it will give the thin, undeveloped woman the muscle structure she needs if she is to carry her gained weight attractively.

Regularity in eating is tremendously important. If you're one who has always picked instead of diving into your rations, start off by eating five meals a day instead of three. They needn't be very large. Above all, eat a good breakfast. As much as you can possibly manage, with lots of butter, cereal, and eggs a couple of mornings a week. Use honey if sugar rations cut you down too much on sweetening.

On a weight gaining régime you won't see results overnight. Be patient; once you start to gain you're usually all set. ELEANOR NANGLE.

Russian Movie Tells Stalingrad Defense in 1918

"FORTRESS ON THE VOLGA."

Good Morning!

The World Playhouse has a varied program. Besides the feature film it presents a delightful musical short—Shostakovitch's 7th Symphony, directed by Leopold Stokowski—plus interesting briefs relative to war.

"Fortress on the Volga" tells the story of the defense of Stalingrad in 1918, when its name was Tsaritsin and Stalin was just a young commissar . . . BUT—one with ideas!

Realizing the strategic importance of the city, he raised his voice in opposition to the opinion of soviet commandants, who, thinking Tsaritsin already doomed by the White army, favored massing Red strength somewhere else.

The defense of the city depended on the arrival of Yoroshilov's 30,000 man army. To reach Tsaritsin the troops cross a bridge spanning the Don. . . . This the enemy blew up. . . . Treachery in the Red ranks further complicated matters. . . . Nothing, however, could stem the determination of Stalin and his followers. . . . The picture shows how the indomitable Red army rebuilt the bridge—in a night, so to speak—from lumber! And marched triumphantly across it to conflict and victory. . . .

The film is strongly acted. Mikhail Gelanov, who plays the young Stalin, looks much as the Russian leader must have appeared in earlier days.

The photography is a delight. Such contrasts! The ominous march of heavy, goose-stepping, mailed feet—in the foreground a vision of flowers blooming softly and seeming to survey the passing invaders with innocence and astonishment.

See you tomorrow.

The Stage

By Cecil Smith

The Chicago company of "The Eve of St. Mark" now being well launched at the Harris theater, the Playwrights' company is turning its full attention to the final touches on Sidney Kingsley's "The Patriots," which will open in New York next Friday. The new play deals with a 10 year period [1790-1800] in the life of Thomas Jefferson. Contemporaries of the author of the Declaration of Independence represented in the cast are George Washington, Alexander Hamilton, James Monroe, and James Madison. Raymond Edward Johnson, well known radio actor, will play Jefferson, and Madge Evans is cast as Patsy, Jefferson's eldest daughter. This is the first time the Playwrights' company—consisting of S. N. Behrman, Maxwell Anderson, Robert E. Sherwood, and Elmer Rice—has produced a play written by a dramatist outside its own membership.

If "The Patriots," which is well thought of by those who know the script, becomes a hit, the Playwrights' company will be having a triumphant season indeed. Mr. Anderson's "The Eve of St. Mark" is represented by two companies, in New York and Chicago, and Mr. Behrman's "The Pirate," with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne, continues to play to capacity in New York.

Katharine Cornell faced a movie camera for the first time yesterday. In New York the first shots of Miss Cornell were made for her brief movie debut in "Stage Door Canteen," under the direction of Frank Bosage. Before accepting her novel assignment, the actress made three stipulations: Acceptance of the rôle must not interfere with her acting in "The Three Sisters"; she would appear only as herself performing her frequent and usual tasks at the Stage Door Canteen, and her one day salary of $1,000 would be turned over to the American Theater Wing.

Out in Hollywood Billy Rose is discussing with B. G. DeSylva tentative plans for producing "Here Comes the Navy," under the auspices of the navy department and the naval aid auxiliary. No official permission has yet been given for this seagoing companion to "This Is the Army," but if such approval is granted, the show will begin in Los Angeles and work eastward.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 22.—Took Jerome Zerbe of the navy out to visit the studio yesterday. It was raining cats and dogs, which practically disrupts everything here. First we looked in on Bataan, which covers two stages. It's one of the most impressive sets you've ever laid your eyes on. I saw some shots of it in "So Proudly We Hail" on the screen, and even the people who've been there tell me you can't tell the difference. They even have a stream of water running thru it, and they duplicate that scene you probably saw in a magazine a few months back where the nurses were bathing. Claudette Colbert, who had just splashed alcohol in one eye during a scene, instead of taking time off to nurse it, closed it and went right on playing the rest of her scenes in profile with the other eye toward the camera. It was to have been her day off, but Paulette Goddard phoned she had a toothache, so Claudette said: "Okay, I'll come down and carry on."

Still Rambling.

From there we went over to "Five Graves to Cairo." I've never seen Franchot Tone looking better or in better spirits. And when I asked how his two goats were getting on, he said: "Listen, Hedda, when I get off this dirty set and go home, I don't need a goat to tell me which way the wind is blowing, nor am I feeding on goats' milk." . . . Seems I've been criticized for buying Bob Montgomery's house. Why — I don't know. When you find a perfect home, don't have to change a thing, I see no reason why you should apologize for buying it. . . . There was Eric von Stroheim, who was brought to the coast in 1914 by Anita Loos and John Emerson, as Rommel. With his back to the camera, they were photographing the three double chins on the back of his neck. This is his fifth moving picture career. Now he's good for major parts as long as this war lasts.

Laid in the Arizona Desert.

In "Riding High," found Vic Moore trying to turn over counterfeit money to Dick Powell. When Dick found it was counterfeit, he refused it. Moore's line was: "It's good money. Let's say it's a masterful bit of duplication of the real thing to catch the real thing." On that set was Paramount's new baby, Glenn Longon. From the New York stage. That's a hunk o' man if I ever saw one. He's one in a million, and I'm just waiting until Dorothy Lamour gets a good look at him. . . . Vic Moore asked me if I was going to the opening of "This Is the Army." "Sure! And you?" "Well," said he, "I tried all his life to get my son on the stage, but he had to go into the army before he made it. Now I have to pay $33 to see him perform!"

Some Call It Work.

Then to watch the new bride, Mrs. Jack Briggs, in "Lady in the Dark." She and Ray Milland were in a long bit of dialogue, which ran four minutes—what we call a "dolly shot." The camera follows them on wheels all the way down a long corridor and back. Both Ginger and Ray came out dripping. Picture's in technicolor. Color takes four times as much light as black and white. . . . I asked Ginger what her boss gave her for a wedding present. "My honeymoon." "What do you mean by that?" "Well, he told me that taking three days off would cost the studio $20,000, and that would be my wedding present." Always being the worm in the apple, I whispered: "Don't let them fool you, Ginger. They only lost half a day on account of your marriage. The boss owes you a present!" Ginger's so happy she's having a hard time playing a female being psychoanalyzed.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: This will probably sound like a gag to you, along the lines of the ever popular cartoons, but it's dead on the level.

"I am that lowest form of army life, a second lieutenant. What's worse [this is the believe it or not part] on my last furlough I had to play bridge with the colonel. Not only that, I cut him as partner, rubber after rubber, instead of having him as an opponent, which would have been a pleasure. Along came this deal, and I came within a jump bid of being court martialed!"

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	NORTH ♠ 10 ♥ A 6 3 ♦ A Q 8 6 ♣ Q J 10 9 7
Me ♠ 3 ♥ K Q J 7 2 ♦ K 9 7 ♣ 5 4 3 2		The Colonel ♠ A K Q J 9 6 ♥ 8 4 ♦ 5 4 3 ♣ 8 6
	SOUTH ♠ 8 7 5 4 2 ♥ 10 9 5 ♦ J 10 3 ♣ A K

"The bidding, with both sides vulnerable, was short and sweet. North bid one club, the colonel overcalled with one spade, South overcalled him with one no trump, I passed, and North promptly bid three no trump. Everybody passed, altho I must admit that the colonel snorted a little bit on his turn.

"Now I come to the blackest page in history. [The colonel later told me that it was guys like me that were the true fifth columnists.] I opened—you've guessed it!—the king of hearts!

"Now I ask you, Mr. C., could I tell that that idiot sitting South was eight spot high in spades? Was my lead really bad or just unlucky? It certainly looked like a pretty good suit, that heart suit, with the diamond king as a possible reëntry."

I am extremely loathe to inject myself into a matter involving military protocol, but justice is justice, colonel or no colonel. My distrait correspondent was perfectly right to open a heart under the circumstances. If the colonel's spade suit was so strong or solid that he could afford to insist on a spade lead, it was up to him to double the three no trump call. Obviously, that action required two-directional nerve: He would have to find West with the spade to open, and he would have to find North, not South, with the spade ten, but surely a colonel should not ask a subordinate to run greater risks than he himself is prepared to assume.

Teasing a Child May Result in Great Injustice

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Three little boys were discussing the merits of their individual uncles.

"I've got an Uncle Harry. He's my pal, and he's coming to my house," said one of them.

"See this knife?" said the second boy. "My Uncle George brought it to me, and he taught me how to whittle, too."

The third child was silent until prodded by his friends, then he said: "Sure, I've got an uncle, but I wish he'd stay in his own home. He always thinks he's funny. He asks me if I'd like to have something he has in his hand, and when I reach for it he snatches it away. The last time he was here, he tripped me when I came into the living room with a glass of water for my dad, and the water spilled all over the rug. Nobody saw him do it, and I got blamed. And what's more he said he didn't do anything, I just made it up. I called him a liar, and I had to stay in the house all afternoon, but I didn't care; he did lie!"

It is strange how some relatives who seem to be fond of the children, take a perverse delight in baiting little boys or girls. It doesn't seem that it requires a tremendous amount of imagination to sense how hurt and bewildered children are when they are badgered in this way. Yet many persons will carry this sort of thing so far that the child loses his self-control.

The way in which grownups behave when this breaking point is reached is what shows them up so badly.

FEDERAL AGENCY RECEIVES BUDGET WITH A SURPLUS

Indian Delegation Guards Against Red Ink.

A government budget for operating the Osage tribe was drawn up here yesterday and, in a year when government deficits are the style, not one drop of red ink was in sight.

Watching closely to see that red ink was kept out was the 82 year old chief, Fred Lookout, his black braids draped over his shoulders. Twelve other tribe members joined the chief in the vigil at the federal office of Indian affairs in the Merchandise Mart. [The Indian affairs office was moved to Chicago several months ago as a part of the program to relieve congestion in Washington, D. C.]

The Indians could smile when the Osage superintendent, T. B. Hall, announced the budget: Estimated income, two and a half million dollars; estimated expenses, $185,000. Despite the big surplus, the Indians scanned every expense item closely for, since the surplus is divided among the Indians, the less the government spends the more they themselves can spend. The delegates were loud in denials when asked if they had any "beef" against the administration.

Tribe Always Solvent.

"The tribe is definitely solvent," said Hall. "It always has been." A government publicity release called the tribe "unique" in its relations with the government.

In 1872 the federal government paid the Osage tribe 10 million dollars for land in Kansas. The tribe bought a tract in Oklahoma for one million, salting away the other nine millions in the federal treasury at 5 per cent.

Some people thought the Indians made a bad land buy. The Indians explained the rough, dry land was good for hunting, or cattle. But in 1897 oil was discovered on the reservation. Since then 275 million dollars' worth of oil has been produced. Of this, 265 millions, plus the nine millions gained in the land trade, has been divided among 2,229 Osage Indians and their heirs.

Have 32 Millions Invested.

Hall said the tribe and its members have 32 million dollars invested in government bonds and other securities.

As oil sellers, the Osages are worried about rationing, but Hall said oil sales so far have held up "pretty good" and that increased prices this year may counterbalance any decrease in sales.

As oil users, the Osages are little worried. As one of the delegation put it:

"Everybody rides horses down there."

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. S. Solmon, 5536 Ingleside avenue.]

THE QUESTION.

What is the most uncomfortable winter day you have ever spent?

WHERE ASKED.

City Hall Square building, 139 North Clark street.

THE ANSWERS.

Henry J. Handelsman Jr., advertising executive, 5716 North Spaulding avenue—We were on a deer hunting trip in northern Wisconsin when a blizzard forced us to turn back. We came across an abandoned lumber camp and decided to stay there, as we no longer could find our way. For two days and nights we had little to eat and used the furniture for fuel.

Herbert M. Wetzel, lawyer, 5400 South Artesian avenue—In the real blizzard of 1918 we were completely isolated. All forms of communication were frozen up. The sleet had torn down the telephone wires and when we wanted anything we had to go out and get it. I'll never forget digging my way to the store for milk for the baby.

Lewis C. Reed, lawyer, Crystal Lake—One winter night I was going to take my friends for a sleigh ride. I hitched up the team and started for my destination. The temperature dropped to 15 degrees below and it began to snow like everything. I kept going as long as I could see and I had two frozen feet and a frozen hand before the trip was over.

Phil S. Roe, lawyer, 1409 West 97th street—I was stranded out in the country and had to wait for the snow plow to come thru before I could move my car. Then I had to drive close behind it for 90 miles at a snail's pace, as I was cautioned the roads would drift over and stall me again. With no heater in the car, that was a long, cold ride.

Harry Keating, elevator operator, 4022 Broadway—When I went to Mexico with the cavalry I didn't expect any winter at all. Because I didn't expect it and wasn't prepared for it, it was one of the most uncomfortable winter days I've ever known. The sand was whipping thru the air like sleet and we were trying to keep warm under one thin horse blanket.

Harriet Miller, general office clerk, 1140 South Central Park avenue—I know what it means to be "snowed in." We were at our country school once when a bad snowstorm was raging. The teacher thought it was best for all of us to stay at the nearest farm home. That was fun, but when I tried to walk home next day I almost didn't make it.

SAVOLD FINISHES BOLDEN IN 3D; WORLDS WINS

ETTEN GOES TO YANKEES; PHILS GET 2 PLAYERS

Chicago Boy to Fill Hassett's Post.

New York, Jan. 22 (AP). — The Yankees moved today to fill the gap at first base by obtaining Nick Etten from the Philadelphia Phils for an undisclosed amount of cash and two players from their Kansas City farm in the American association—Pitcher Allen Gettel and First Baseman Ed Levy.

Etten, a left handed power hitter who batted .311 for the Phils in 1941 but subsided to a .265 pace last season, will take the spot left vacant by Buddy Hassett's entry into military service.

Played with A's Too.

Etten is 28 years old and has been in professional baseball since 1933, most of the time in the minor leagues, altho he was with the Philadelphia Athletics during part of the 1938 and 1939 seasons.

HE'S A CHICAGO BOY.

Nick Etten, sold to the Yanks by the Phils yesterday, is a Chicago product. He grew into baseball by way of St. Rita High school and the Duffy Florals. At Villanova college he concentrated on football, subsequently returning to baseball in 1933 with the Davenport club of the Mississippi Valley league. Later he was with Little Rock, Birmingham, Oklahoma City, Elmira, N. Y.; Savannah, Ga., Jacksonville, Fla., and Baltimore. At Jacksonville in 1938 he returned to first base to stay, having played the outfield most of the time in his previous minor league travels.

"Well, that comes under the heading of good news," remarked Etten when informed he had been converted from a Phil into a Yankee.

Etten is the father of two children.

Shaughnessy May Be Next Coach at Pitt

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 22 (AP).—The University of Pittsburgh is in the market for a football coach and Clark Shaughnessy, now at the University of Maryland, is a leading candidate for the job.

Jimmy Hagan, athletic director at Pitt, said tonight the contract of Charles W. Bowser, 44 year old coach, expires March 15 and that Bowser expects to be in the naval reserves as a lieutenant commander by that time.

No Change in Big Ten Status.

Hagan added that if Shaughnessy came to Pitt there would be no change in the school's present advisory connection with the Western conference.

Bowser has headed Pitt's coaching staff since Dr. John Bain [Jock] Sutherland resigned four years ago during a controversy over a deëmphasis program which virtually ended subsidization of athletes.

The deëmphasized Pitt teams became pushovers for opponents, and their drawing power at home fell proportionately. In 1934, when Sutherland's team was at top speed, 244,600 fans attended five games here. Last year approximately 63,000 attended five games.

Will Face Eight Foes.

The 1943 schedule, unless revised to cut travel, calls for games at Duke, Illinois, Southern Methodist, and Nebraska. At home Pitt will play Minnesota, Carnegie Tech, Ohio State, and Penn State.

Welakahau to Conclude Tonight in Patten Gym

The Welakahau, annual swimming show presented by the Dolphin Swimming club of Northwestern university, will conclude a three day program tonight at 8:30 in the Patten gymnasium pool. The Dolphin club is a national honorary swimming club,

EXPECT RULING WITHIN WEEK ON BASEBALL WAGES

Harridge Returns from Conference in East.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The major league club owners, not to mention the players who naturally are anxious to get an idea of what kind of money they can expect for the coming season, may be relieved shortly of the worries occasioned by the so-called wage freeze law.

Upon his return yesterday from New York where the finishing touches were given the 1943 schedules, President Will Harridge of the American league declared he thought that the official ruling awaited from Washington might be handed down early next week.

Because of the uncertainty of how the law might apply to baseball, always a peculiar business, the 16 clubs were advised by the league chiefs to refrain from contract affairs until Washington had been heard from. So far as is known no club ignored the instruction altho it was reported last week the Yanks, Dodgers, and Giants were going right ahead, basing their haste on an interpretation given by their regional director.

Ruling Is Interpreted.

The local ruling as claimed by the three clubs in the New York area was, in effect, that the players were not under contract at the time the law became effective last October, hence were not subject to its regulations for another year.

However, it is possible that the final ruling may have little or no effect on a club's desire to trim or raise a player on his 1942 performance.

It has been whispered around that Washington authorities have intimated unofficially that the only logical solution would be for each club to stay within the minimum and maximum salaries paid to its players in 1942. For instance, if a club had pulled in a rookie late in the season for a $350 per month salary, that would be the minimum. But the top salaried player of a club, if the interpretation should be on the above basis, couldn't be given a boost in pay.

Schedules Are Late.

Because of the delay caused by the making over of the playing schedules to fit them to the April 21 opening and Oct. 3 closing dates picked at the recent special joint meeting here, the charts may not be ready for publication until late next month.

Printers' proofs must be submitted to each club for the latter to select dates for night games and Sunday double headers. With this detail disposed of, the printing of the schedules will proceed.

And This Is How Worlds Won

Creighton Meets Great Lakes in Stadium; Indiana at Iowa

BY WILFRID SMITH.

An undefeated Creighton university basketball team and Great Lakes, winner of 15 in 17 games this season, will highlight the Stadium double header program this evening. The first game at 8:15 o'clock matches Michigan State and De Paul. The Demons are seeking their 13th victory in 14 games.

Creighton holds two decisions over the Bluejackets. In 1918 the Bluejays won, 25 to 20, and last year whipped Great Lakes, 59 to 45, for the most decisive licking the Sailors received in five games lost.

The Stadium double header, sixth of the season, shares basketball interest in the middle west with the Indiana-Iowa contest in Iowa City. The Hoosiers share the Western conference leadership with Illinois. Each is undefeated in Big Ten play, but Indiana also boasts of an unbeaten campaign while Illinois lost a nonconference game to Camp Grant.

Iowa Can Be Tough.

Indiana apparently should win from Iowa tonight and Monday, but Coach Branch McCracken remembers the 55 to 52 defeat Indiana received last winter on the Hawkeye court.

Ohio State will meet Purdue tonight in Lafayette in the only other conference game. This series will be concluded Monday. Purdue lost its first conference game last Monday night in Minneapolis after winning the first contest of the series with Minnesota. Chicago is the only other conference team playing tonight. The Maroons travel to Western Michigan.

Since Purdue has lost only one game, the Boilermakers are not out of the conference race. They must sweep the Ohio State series, however.

De Paul Expects to Win.

Lt. Paul Hinkle, coach of Great Lakes, has switched his starting lineup for Creighton. He believes a steady defense is needed to check the Creighton boys. Wilbur Schumacher of Butler, and John Hiller of Notre Dame probably will start at the forwards; Dick Klein of Northwestern, will be the center, and Gil Huffman of Tennessee and George Sobek of Notre Dame will be the guards.

Three members of the Creighton team that whipped Great Lakes last year will play tonight. They are Center Ed Beisser and Forward Ralph Langer, co-captains, and Joe Loisel, forward. Don Knowles and Ward Gibson are the Creighton guards.

De Paul anticipates a victory over Michigan State. The Blue Demons are pointing toward their date next Saturday night in the Stadium with Notre Dame. Coach George Keogan of the Irish will scout De Paul tonight. Lineups tonight follow:

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 22 [Special].—The Big Ten's two most powerful swimming teams, Michigan and Ohio State, will clash here tomorrow in the first of two meets that will go far toward determining whether the Wolverines or Buckeyes will be favored in the Western conference meet in Evanston on March 5 and 6. GILLS WIN FIRST HALF CROWN IN CLASSIC LEAGUE

The Joseph L. Gill bowlers captured the first half championship in the Classic league's split season by winning two games from the Prima Pilsners on the Marigold Arcade alleys last night. The teams were completing a best four of seven games rolloff after having finished the first half of the season in a tie. The Gills took two of the first three games bowled at the Stack & Ryan bowl Tuesday night.

PAT COMISKEY LOSES DECISION BEFORE 10,894

Franklin Knocks Out Allen in 1st.

Fight Decisions

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.

At Chicago Stadium—Lee Savold knocked out Nate Bolden [3]; Lem Franklin knocked out Altus Allen [1]; Clayton Worlds beat Pat Comiskey [10]; Vince Calzaretto beat Lindy Elliott [6]; Hubert Hood knocked out Hank Postaway [3].

At Detroit, Mich.—Jake La Motta stopped Charley Hays [6]; Pete Mead beat Jerry Pittro [4].

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Lee Savold, Paterson [N. J.] heavyweight, knocked out Nate Bolden in the third round of a scheduled 10 round bout in Chicago Stadium last night.

Bolden, 1937 Chicago intercity Golden Gloves winner, who weighed 172½ pounds, was making his first appearance against a fullfledged heavyweight and the fact he was soundly beaten will not be held against him by the 10,894 spectators.

Savold, 22 pounds heavier than his opponent from the south side, had difficulty finding the range in the first round. Nate kept him at a distance with a series of left jabs which soon had Savold's nose a bright red.

Then Came the Finish.

A right to the body by Savold in the next round was the beginning of the end. This blow, followed by a left hook to the head, caused Bolden to stumble, but he recovered in time to connect with several punches of his own.

Lee countered with a left, which spun his smaller foe around. In the third, Savold sent Nate spinning to the canvas twice before the knockout came, once for an eight count and again for nine. The time was 1 minute 29 seconds.

Clayton Worlds, former city Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, scored one of the biggest upsets of the season by outpointing Pat Comiskey of Paterson, N. J., in a 10 round semi-windup.

Decision Not Unanimous.

The decision was not unanimous, Dr. G. W. Christoph, one of the judges, scoring for Comiskey, 54-45. Referee Bernard Weissman and Judge Henry C. Froula voted 51-49 and 54-46, respectively, for Worlds. It was a popular verdict, Clayton making the most of his superior reach in jabbing his way to victory.

Lem Franklin, Cleveland heavyweight who won the international Golden Gloves heavyweight title six years ago, floored Altus Allen for the count after only 19 seconds of the first round had elapsed. While the bell still echoed, Allen rushed toward Lem, to be met with a left and right which dropped him on the apron close to Franklin's corner.

Hood Wins by Knockout.

Preliminary matches were won by Hubert Hood, last year's Chicagoland Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, and Vince Calzaretto, Palos Park. Hood knocked out Hank Postaway of Wyandotte, Mich., in the third round, while Calzaretto defeated Lindy Elliott, New York, in six rounds.

Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun, presenting their second promotion in the stadium said net receipts were $23,805.10. The gross was $28,421.20, the largest gate at a professional fight in the stadium since Tony Zale knocked out Al Hostak two years ago.

HAWKS BATTLE LEAFS TONIGHT, THEN RUSH HOME

The Blackhawks will meet the high scoring Maple Leafs in Toronto tonight and then will hustle home to take on the Boston Bruins tomorrow night in the Stadium.

The Chicago players left for Toronto yesterday with their confidence stepped up quite a bit by virtue of the rally with which they tied the Montreal Canadiens, 4 to 4, on Thursday after trailing 3 to 0 at the end of the first period. This tie enabled them to retain their three point lead over the Canadiens in the rivalry for fourth place.

The Daltons Go Golden Glove Hunting

Tim Dalton (on the scales) and his brother, Richard, were among the 1943 Golden Gloves candidates who took physical examinations in Trafton's gymnasium last night. Tim, who will battle this year in the open division, won the Chicago novice lightweight championship last winter. Brother Dick will compete in the 126 pound open class. The Daltons live at 2817 Cullerton avenue and represent the Madison A. C. The weigher-in is Joe Miller. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

ARMOUR'S 1943 OPERATIONS ARE SHOWING PROFIT

Government Orders Tax Facilities.

Operations of Armour & Co. in the first quarter of the current fiscal year which began Nov. 1 have been on a profitable basis, President George A. Eastwood told stockholders yesterday at their annual meeting.

George A. Eastwood.

"Our facilities," he said, "continue to be taxed to their limits in serving the needs of the army, the navy, and for lend-lease."

Part of the meeting was given to the showing of slide pictures tracing the company's origin and development, and explaining many difficulties of doing business under government war regulations. Unsatisfactory conditions resulting from pork price ceilings as originally imposed were improved by the revised system of ceilings put into effect Nov. 2, Eastwood said.

Company Progress Indicated.

The annual report showed that profits of Armour of Illinois, parent company, disappeared in the latter part of 1942 after imposition of price ceilings and a loss was reported for the year. Activities of its subsidiary, Armour of Delaware, resulted in a consolidated net profit for the company.

Stockholders were given a glimpse of company progress as indicated by a comparison of the balance sheets of last year and of 1923, after a reorganization. Funded debt was reduced from 144 million to 62 million dollars during the 20 years, and sales increased from slightly more than 800 millions to 1 billion 300 millions.

Otto Schuler, a minority stockholder, criticized directors in connection with operations of the Nathan Schweitzer company, a subsidiary. Eastwood replied that Armour originally had invested $155,500 in the Schweitzer company and has received dividends totaling $795,600, approximately five times the investment.

Liquidating Schweitzer Firm.

"I regret to say that because of office of price administration ceilings and the loss of steamship and other business due to the war, it has become increasingly difficult for the Nathan Schweitzer company to operate profitably," Eastwood informed stockholders, "and Armour for some time has foreseen the necessity of discontinuing the operations of that company in order to protect its investment."

In addition to the one-half interest purchased in the Schweitzer company in 1919, he said, Armour recently purchased the remaining half and liquidation of the subsidiary now is in progress.

Five directors reëlected for three year terms are A. Watson Armour, James R. Leavell, D. R. McLennan, Frederick H. Prince, and Eastwood. At a directors' meeting later all Armour officers were reappointed.

'INDISPENSABLE,' ASKS TRIAL DELAY FOR TIMBER FIRM

Arnold Joerns, manager and former president of Resources Corporation International, tried with five others a year ago on charges of defrauding midwest investors of 7 million dollars, filed a petition yesterday requesting a postponement "for the duration" of the retrial scheduled for April 5 as a result of jury disagreement.

If he and other R. C. I. officials must stand trial on schedule, said Joerns, they could not go to Mexico and check timber cutters' reports that the company's Mexican properties contained 2 million wild rubber trees for which negotiations are pending.

Joerns told Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan he and the company have become "indispensable" in the war production schedule. To support his contention he presented a $321,870 treasury department contract for lumber and a letter from J. W. Flatley of the treasury procurement division saying the lumber is "urgently required for direct war purposes."

G. O. P. DEMANDS EARLY HEARINGS ON INCOME TAX

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22 (AP).—Republican members of the house ways and means committee today demanded immediate hearings on tax matters, including a pay as you go plan.

Chairman Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.], announcing that he personally favored action on a current income tax payment system as quickly as possible, separating it from the general tax problem in the interest of speed, disclosed that the treasury was at work on a plan. He said the committee would start work next week.

Chevrolet Completes Deal to Acquire Indiana Plant

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 22 (AP).—Chevrolet division of General Motors corporation announced today that negotiations have been completed for the acquisition of the American Steel & Wire company plant in Anderson, Ind.

M. E. Coyle, Chevrolet general manager said that production at the new plant will be under the direction of the army air forces.

Grains Climb; Cash Oats Set 15 Year Peak

Announcement that the house agricultural committee had unanimously approved a bill to include all farm labor costs in computing parity prices on agricultural products, and a denial of reports that the government planned an early ceiling price on wheat caused an upturn in grain prices on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday.

Wheat futures advanced 1¾ cents and rye 2 cents before the demand was satisfied. The distant deliveries of rye sold at new seasonal high prices.

May Wheat Strongest.

Profit taking caused a reaction in wheat with the close ⅝ to 1¼ cents higher, May showing the most strength. Rye was 1⅛ to 1⅞ cents higher. Corn gained ⅜ to ¾ cent and oats were ⅝ cent higher, the latter closing at the top. Cash oats sold at 63 cents, a new 15 year high.

Short covering was responsible for a large part of the strength in grains, brokers said. Mills were reported to have made moderate purchases of wheat futures, altho the demand for flour generally was said to be slow.

There was nothing in the news to account for the rye upturn, altho brokers said that the possibility that rye may be included in the grain shipped to Russia thru lend-lease tended to create a belief that rye was selling too low relative to wheat and corn.

JEWEL TEA SALES REGISTER LARGE INCREASE IN 1942

Sales of the Jewel Tea company totaled $53,224,693 in the 52 weeks ended Jan. 2, an increase of 27.9 per cent above the $41,614,584 volume for the 53 weeks of the fiscal year ended Jan. 3, 1942, the company announced yesterday from headquarters in Barrington, Ill. The volume of business was the largest in the history of the company. Excluding the extra week in 1941, sales for the last fiscal year were 30.91 per cent higher.

Opens First Account

William L. London, president of the Livingston Coffee company, 24 West Kinzie street, yesterday became the First National bank's first customer under the system of ration banking to be started thruout the country next Wednesday. His account was one of the first opened in Chicago.

Instead of dollars, the accounts will contain coupons and certificates necessary to buy and sell gasoline, sugar, and coffee—items now included—and the other commodities to be added to the ration list later. The banks will take over the bookkeeping heretofore handled by the OPA rationing boards.

Retailers, wholesalers, and others dealing in sugar and coffee are to open the accounts, as are gasoline distributors other than retailers. The banking system is optional with dealers whose December business did not exceed $5,000.

Bigger Supply Forces Prices of Hogs Down

Milder weather brought more hogs to market yesterday and forced prices down 10 to 15 cents a hundred pounds to the lowest level of the week. Prices were mainly 30 to 40 cents below the high point of midweek when buyers competed for the light supply at the highest prices for January in 23 years.

Numerous consignments brought the $15 top, which was 15 cents lower. The average declined 15 cents to $14.80.

The yards received a total of 29,500 hogs, including 14,500 direct shipments to packers, compared with 14,766 a week ago and 12,998 a year ago.

Little change occurred in other classes of meat animals altho larger supplies arrived. There was a 17 per cent increase in the sheep and lamb total. Prices held mostly steady, with $16.40 the top for wool lambs.

Most classes of steers, yearlings, heifers, cows, canners, cutters, bulls, and calves sold steady. Best steers in the run reached $15.50, with the majority at $13.50 to $15.

OPA PREPARING TO PROSECUTE MEAT CHISELERS

Prosecution of chiseling on meat price ceilings and slaughtering quotas will be started shortly by the OPA in Chicago, an OPA spokesman said yesterday. More than 50 inspectors, including a dozen from the Chicago metropolitan area OPA office, are making investigations.

Most of the violations of the OPA meat regulations consist of overcharges, either carelessly recorded on invoices or cleverly concealed by devious subterfuges, and under-the-counter transactions.

OPA investigators admitted that the most difficult violations to detect were those committed by retail butchers. As a result, the OPA expects to concentrate its enforcement drive on wholesale dealers and packers who have engaged in illicit practices.

PERSONAL INCOME TAX—2.

Unless specifically exempted by statute, income of every kind must be reported in the taxpayer's return. Bonuses, tips, commissions, special awards, and prizes are income.

If a person is given free living quarters, or board, or something else of value other than money, as compensation for services, the fair value of such compensation must be reported. However, if room and board, or living quarters are provided primarily for the convenience of the employer, their value does not constitute taxable income for the employé.

It is not necessary that the taxpayer actually handle cash in order to receive income. Interest credited to his savings account is income, and so is a dividend check when it is received even tho not cashed for a long time. Alimony and separate maintenance payments received must be reported as income. Likewise debts paid for you by some one else, income taxes paid for you by your employer, and so on.

Some types of income are not taxable, and some of these need not be reported at all. In the latter category are pensions received under the railroad retirement act, social security pensions, amounts received thru accident or health insurance or under workmen's compensation acts for personal injury or sickness, damages received on account of injuries or sickness, pensions and compensation received by war veterans or their families from the United States for services in time of war, life insurance paid on the death of the insured, and amounts received by gifts, bequest or devise.

Annuities and pensions received under annuity or endowment insurance or under retirement funds or plans toward which the taxpayer has made payments or contributions, are taxable in part. The taxable portion is an annual amount equal to 3 per cent of the total premiums or payments made for the annuity or pension; the remainder is considered a return of principal. When the total of tax free amounts received equals the total cost of the annuity, the entire annuity income received thereafter is subject to income tax.

Persons in military service, below commissioned grade, are exempt from tax on compensation for such service up to $250 a year in the case of a single person and $300 for a married person.

Interest income must be reported, but not all interest is taxable. Interest on obligations of a state, territory, or political subdivision thereof, or on obligations of the District of Columbia, or United States possessions, is wholly tax exempt. Interest on certain obligations of the federal government is either wholly or partially tax exempt. Dividends on money invested in share accounts of federal savings and loan associations prior to March 28, 1942, are exempt from normal tax but not from surtax; dividends on money invested in these shares since March 28, 1942, is fully taxable.

Interest on postal savings deposits made before March 1, 1941, is exempt. A recovery on a bad debt is not taxable income if the bad debt had not been used to reduce income tax liability of a prior year.

The rental value of a dwelling furnished to a minister of the gospel as part of his compensation is specifically exempted from tax.

Radio, Cable, Wires Placed Under Priority

Washington, D. C., Jan. 22 (AP).—The board of war communications today established priorities for all telegraph, cable, and radio telegraph carriers, giving first call to messages of war, navy, and state departments.

This action, effective Feb. 15, had been anticipated since a similar system was set up Nov. 1 for long distance telephone lines. Priorities were ordered eight days ago on all teletypewriter lines.

The board established two types of priority messages, one described as "US urgent" and the other as "OP priority." The first applies only to domestic and international messages filed by the state, war, and navy departments. The second may be used only by the war and navy departments.

"Priority" and "Rapid" Explained.

A third designation is simply "priority" and may be used by any of the three agencies in matters involving immediate danger owing to the presence of an enemy and emergency in connection with actual military or naval requirements, or a hurricane, flood, earthquake, or other disaster.

Messages which carry the designation "rapid," will be given prompt transmission, but will not interrupt messages which may be in transmission when the "rapid" file is received. This classification may be used for messages involving important governmental functions, machinery, tools, or raw materials for war plants; production, movement, or diversion of central supplies; maintenance of essential public services, supply, movement, or diversion of food, and civilian defense and public health and safety.

Use of "Franks" Restricted.

The board issued another order to all domestic telegraph carriers to "limit and restrict" the use of "franks" [messages carried without charge] and to give messages so submitted the status of "night letters."

The companies were ordered also to restrict the use of deadhead messages on company business, and not to transmit any free service message for a sender or addressee of a message already filed.

The board ordered that messages not designated with a priority should be handled in the customary manner.

STOCKS UNEVEN IN 2D LIVELIEST TRADE OF YEAR

Several Industrial Issues Set Peaks.

New York, Jan. 22 (AP).—The stock market reverted to selectivity today and, while many industrials went into new high ground for more than a year in the second liveliest session of 1943, profit cashing caused a number of recently strong climbers to shift into a decline.

Dealings were speediest at the opening and gains at midday ran to 2 or more points. Rails, steels, and motors then began to retreat and the pace slowed. Blue chips retained most of their advantage at the close altho final prices generally were slightly uneven.

War News Favorable.

Continued favorable factors were war news and investment dem.d. There was an inclination to tri.. ..mitments, however, for week-end protection. Customers also stood aside on the theory Tuesday's technical correction might be extended before the upswing was resumed.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .1 of a point at 42.8, a new top since Oct. 6, 1941. It was another broad market, with 857 individual issues traded. Transfers amounted to 883,410 shares, against 810,270 the day before.

Pere Marquette Railway prior preferred dropped 5 points, the preferred was off 1⅞ and the common down ⅝ as President Robert Browning warned that dividends on these stocks were unlikely because of necessity for reserving earnings to meet outstanding debt.

BONDS AT NEW PEAKS.

New York, Jan. 22 (AP).—The bond market absorbed profit taking today and emerged with four of the five main groups at new average highs for a year or longer. Gains of fractions to more than a point were widely distributed most of the forenoon, but new high prices attracted selling. Sales of $14,079,900 compared with Thursday's total of $15,195,200.

United States government issues clung to the firm undertone of recent days, altho activity was light.

CHICAGO LIST HIGHER.

Chicago Stock exchange prices were higher yesterday. Among the volume leaders were Chicago corporation, Armour & Co., and Midland United A preferred, all up ½; Commonwealth Edison, down ⅛, and Middle West corporation, unchanged. In the final half hour Stewart-Warner eased ⅛ and Walgreen rose ¼ from the New York close.

FINANCING WILL DROP.

New state and municipal financing will drop to less than 2 million dollars next week, a result of the absence of housing financing which has been large in recent weeks. The total to reach the market was calculated at $1,862,000 by the Daily Bond Buyer, compared with $28,559,000 in the current period.

Stores Can't Pass Ammunition; Farm Machine Makers Puzzled

Tied Up by Red Tape

Dealers' supplies of shotgun and rifle ammunition for individual civilian use have been exhausted thruout the nation, and hardware dealers, who theoretically still can apply for the shells on WPB priority forms, have thrown up their hands in despair at the red tape involved and ceased even trying to do any business in that line.

Existence of this condition was reported yesterday by the Chicago Retail Hardware association and other sources, which said that farmers who need ammunition to ward off predatory animals, including wolves and coyotes, have had to struggle against regulations that made it nearly impossible to get shells even before the supply was exhausted.

Doled Out All Supplies.

WPB some time ago froze available stocks of the ammunition and created a special division to dole it out to various types of nonwar users, including industries which employ guards to protect plants.

Stocks of shells were placed in a small number of jobbing and wholesale houses. At first 17 such places were designated, but later the number was expanded to 47. Chicago has one.

Any civilian, such as a stockman, rancher or farmer, who sought to buy shells after WPB took control usually found his dealer did not have the required WPB forms for making the sale, even if he had the shells.

Most Dealers Give Up.

The dealer then would have to make a search for one of the scattered jobbers or wholesalers designated a supplier, and request that the blanks be sent. Then the dealer would struggle with the application form, which, according to J. C. Amis, secretary and manager of the hardware association, is so complicated that most dealers gave up when they saw it. The form is 14 inches long.

But if the dealer chose to go thru with the process, he filled out the blank in duplicate and sent both copies to the official supplier, who is required to keep a record of every small transaction in shells and send to Washington one of the two forms required for each order.

The association said that the bookkeeping detail and work of handling the applications for each little sale while shells still were available was burdensome for the dealers and that the delays involved created much inconvenience for customers.

Steel Supply Problem

The farm implement industry can use Bessemer steel in the manufacture of farm implements, but this type of steel is difficult to tool, is unsatisfactory for certain parts, and is not desirable for parts in implements which come directly in contact with the soil, such as plowshares.

This comment on the action of the war production board in increasing the first quarter steel allotment to the farm implement industry from 137,000 tons to 187,000 tons was made yesterday by a spokesman for a leading company. The WPB stipulated that the increased steel allotted be Bessemer steel.

Question of Delivery.

The question perplexing the industry is whether it will get the additional Bessemer steel allotted it by the WPB and if it will obtain the steel in time to make implements so badly needed for the spring planting season.

The farm implement company spokesman said that Bessemer steel has not been used generally by the industry for many years. He explained that it is difficult to obtain a uniform steel thru the Bessemer process, there being less control over carbon than in steel produced by the open hearth method. This lack of exact control, it was explained, may result in a lack of uniformity in hardness.

Says It Is Hard to Tool.

This lack of uniformity makes Bessemer steel hard to tool. Tools are broken frequently, the implement company official said.

Meantime, the industry wonders whether and when it can take delivery of the allotted steel. The official said that in order to manufacture implements for use in this spring's planting the steel must be delivered not later than March 15.

Church Group Denies Part in Rollins Inquiry

Church organizations mentioned in the government investigation of E. H. Rollins & Sons, Inc., have indicated that they were satisfied with the handling of their investment accounts by the firm and were not responsible for the action leading to the securities and exchange commission inquiry.

Walter Cecil Rawls, manager of the Rollins branch in St. Louis, disclosed yesterday that one of the accounts under SEC scrutiny was that of the Methodist board of missions of which his brother, Janius F. Rawls of Nashville, Tenn., was treasurer.

The St. Louis manager denied there had been any irregularity in this or any other account. Junius Rawls said the fund of which he had been treasurer was dissolved last month in the course of the consolidation of Methodist church jurisdictions. He said he was not aware of any complaints to the SEC.

Bishop Arthur J. Moore at Atlanta, Ga., indicated the church had not taken the initiative in the inquiry.

The SEC ordered a public hearing in its Chicago office on Feb. 23 into charges against the Rollins company and its St. Louis manager. The charges included the sale of securities to customers at prices above prevailing markets, falsification of records, and other actions against the best interests of customers.

Perry Dryden, resident manager of the Rollins Chicago office, said that no discretionary accounts were involved, and that all transactions were on definite orders from church officials. He declined otherwise to elaborate on a formal statement issued Wednesday.

Information from other sources indicated the SEC was inquiring into a series of transactions involving the purchase and sale of second grade securities which, altho yielding a high interest return to the buyer, lacked the investment stability of higher grade investments.

People and Events

D. Dean McCormick of Kebbon, McCormick & Co. has been nominated for the presidency of the Bond club of Chicago, the club's nominating committee announced yesterday. Other nominees are Eugene Hotchkiss of the Lee Higginson corporation for secretary, and Charles R. Perrigo of Hornblower & Weeks for treasurer. The election will be held at the club's 32d annual meeting Feb. 6 in the Palmer House.

D. Dean McCormick.

F. W. Barrett was elected president of the Globe Coal company to succeed Walter J. Tuohy, who recently was elected vice president of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad. Barrett, former vice president, has been with the company since 1907. E. L. Grady was elected vice president and L. W. Sanborn was elected secretary-treasurer.

Bishop Arthur J. Moore at Atlanta, Ga., indicated the church had not taken the initiative in the inquiry.

The SEC ordered a public hearing in its Chicago office on Feb. 23 into charges against the Rollins company and its St. Louis manager. The charges included the sale of securities to customers at prices above prevailing markets, falsification of records, and other actions against the best interests of customers.

THE RYAN FAMILY OF 15 HUNTS NEW HOME AFTER FIRE

The Father Knows What a Tough Job It Is.

The Ryans, routed from their home by a pre-dawn fire, counted noses yesterday and then began house hunting. That's quite a task, because there are 15 of them—the father, Richard, 39 years old, the mother, Marie, 38, and 13 children. The parents got all the children out of their second floor flat at 7657 Cottage Grove avenue when a fire started in a first floor tavern, but now they don't know where to put them.

"We're scattering them among friends for the time being," the father, an explosives operator at a war plant, said. "We lost some furniture and clothes and that's bad, but every time I think of finding a place to live—wow! It seems landlords have a little objection to a big family."

House Is Sold.

Years ago when the Ryan children numbered eight, the parents rented a south side house. It was sold nine months ago. The Ryans had to move.

For three months they patrolled the south side. Every time they found or heard of a house or flat big enough to hold them, the father rushed up to the landlord. The routine was always the same:

LANDLORD—Any children?
RYAN—Yes.
LANDLORD—Many?
RYAN—No, not many, just 12.
LANDLORD—NO!

After several weeks of this, Ryan in his conversations with landlords, began reducing the size of his family. At last he found a seven room flat, the one ruined by fire yesterday. To the landlord's usual questions, Ryan admitted he had "four or five children." The landlord yielded. "I guess I lied a little," Ryan recalled, "but we had to live some place."

Thought They Were Settled.

Later the landlord learned the "four or five" were a dozen but did not object. Neither did he protest when the 12 became 13 four months ago. The Ryans thought they were settled.

Then came the fire. Ryan, smelling smoke soon after he arrived home from work, aroused his wife and some of the older children. Between them they led or carried the others to safety.

"We weren't sure we had them all until we counted noses," Ryan said. Then he went back into the building and rescued the colored porter, Thomas Chatman, 72 years old, who had been overcome in the basement.

Firemen checked the blaze but not until flames had torn thru the Ryan flat and started, once more, the search for a new home.

HUSBAND SLAIN IN QUARREL WITH ESTRANGED WIFE

Eugene Cwik, 26 years old, of 2109 North California avenue, a beer truck driver, was shot and killed last night during a quarrel with his estranged wife, Sylvia, 26, in the living room of her basement apartment at 3136 Jackson boulevard.

Warren avenue police, who arrested Mrs. Cwik, said she told them she had shot her husband in the temple with a .25 caliber automatic pistol.

"We were quarreling," police said the woman told them, "and Gene kept coming toward me. I backed thru the kitchen door and into the living room. He kept coming, so I picked up the pistol and pulled the trigger." Police said Mrs. Cwik was hysterical.

A friend of the Cwiks, Louis Glambos, told police that he heard the couple quarreling, but did not see the shooting. Glambos said the Cwiks had separated three weeks ago.

HAVE YOU HEARD OF THE STRANGE NEW LAD IN THE IMPERIAL HOUSEHOLD?
WHO HASN'T? ---AND BZZ-BZZ -BZZ
IT IS UNSEEMLY THAT OUR PRINCESS SHOULD PREFER THE COMPANY OF HER SLAVE --AND A FOREIGNER, AT THAT
TY'S SPIES INFORM HIM THAT THE GOSSIP CONCERNING DEER AND HER SERVANT, PARA, IS SPREADING
OH, HIGH PRIEST, THE PEOPLE ARE BECOMING RESTIVE AND ANGRY.
KEEP ME INFORMED OF EVERY MOVEMENT THAT THE PRINCESS DEER MAKES.
I MUST BREAK UP THIS SILLY INFATUATION OF THE PRINCESS FOR HER SERVANT, PARA ---OR WE SHALL HAVE A REVOLUTION ON OUR HANDS
YOU ARE LIKE NO ORDINARY SERVANT, PARA. TELL ME OF YOUR PAST.
MEANWHILE DEER AND PARA START THEIR TRIP UP THE NILE. THE DAYS PASS SWIFTLY FOR THEM
I WAS A KING'S SON, MY LOVELY PRINCESS, ---AND I, TOO, LIVED IN A PALACE ---
THEN YOUR COUNTRY AND MY COUNTRY FOUGHT A BLOODY WAR --- AND I WAS CAPTURED AND BROUGHT HERE IN CHAINS.
ALAS, POOR PARA, I NEVER KNEW THAT YOU WERE ROYAL. THE LOT OF A SLAVE IS A HARD ONE.
I CARE NOT FOR A LOST KINGDOM ----- LET ME ONLY BE NEAR YOU AND I WILL BE HAPPY
HUSH, PARA! THOSE ARE DANGEROUS WORDS. TY, THE HIGH PRIEST, IS VERY POWERFUL AND IF HE HEARD THEM HE WOULD KILL YOU
I WILL TAKE THE RISK!
NEXT WEEK- IN DANGER
